INSANE HUSBAND

Attacks Wife and Daughter in Wigginville Last NightWife Driven Through Window to Shed, is Badly Injured — Man
Will be Sent to Asylum

Frederick Howard, aged 42 years, threw his wife out of a second-story window of their house at 8 Huntington avenue, Wigginville, about 2:30 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Howard is at the Lowell General hospital, where it is reported she is resting comfortably and in all probability will live, while Howard is occupying a cell at the police station, he having been arrested shortly after he committed the deed.

That Howard acted on the impulse of the moment and during temporary insanity is almost an assured fact for time at the Worcester Insane asylum and during the past few days had been acting in a queer manner.

Owing to the fact that the incident occurred during the early hours of the morning the neighbors know little about the case and the man under arrest, the woman at the hospital and the daughter, Elizabeth, have but little to say about the affair.

The daughter was in conference with Drs. Benner and Sweetser at the police station this morning and the former told a minute story of the actions of her father during the past few days.

Howard is employed as a bookbinder at the United States Printing mills and has been working very steadily. His only fault seems to have been his addiction to liquor and that seven or eight years ago his brain was affected and it was found necessary to send him to the insane asylum at Worcester.

Howard and his wife and daughter have been living in Huntington avenue since a short time after the expiration of the powder magazines in 1902 and, according to the neighbors there, has never been any trouble in the house.

During the past week, however, Howard had been acting rather queer and while he had been given to morbid spells since his release from the insane asylum, the members of the household were of the opinion that he was finally cured.

He had been drinking heavily of late and on numerous occasions had gone to his home in an intoxicated condition. On Thanksgiving day there was a case of beer in the house and Howard drank the greater part of that together with some whiskey. He went to work the next day, however, and had been working up to last night.

Upon returning to his home last night he appeared to be in a better frame of mind than he had been during the past few days and after enjoying a hearty supper sat down to read the paper.

The paper in question was The Sun, and upon looking at the last page and seeing the political cartoon he began to laugh aloud. He then looked at other part of the paper, but continually kept turning to the last page and laughing at the cartoon.

While reading the paper he appeared to be rather hysterical, and at eight o'clock decided to go out for a walk. He went out and within fifteen minutes returned and retired for the night.

Some time during the early part of the morning Howard arose and partially dressing himself started walking around the house and threatened to do bodily harm to both his wife and daughter. They tried to pacify him, but he grew worse and Mrs. Howard and her daughter arose and dressed. By this time Howard was terribly insane, and grabbing his daughter tore her clothing and grabbing her by the throat started to choke her. After he had left the girl in an almost unconscious condition he turned on his wife and grabbing her by the throat pushed her through a bedroom window to the roof of the rear piazza and from there the woman rolled to the ground, a distance of about fifteen feet.

What happened after that until Mrs. Howard was found seems to be a blank, for Howard did not know what occurred, the daughter had gone in search of a doctor, and Mrs. Howard is unable to tell what she did.

Shortly before four o'clock this morning the occupants of the house in the rear of that occupied by the Howards were awakened by moans, and after arising an investigation showed Mrs. Howard on the rear steps of the neighbor's house and she was moaning in a most piteous manner.

The ambulance and the police were notified, and when the ambulance reached the scene the woman was taken to the Lowell General hospital. A little later Howard was arrested by Patrolman Charles S. Hill and sent to the police station, where he was locked up. Owing to the fact that the police were certain that Howard was insane, there was no charge preferred against him.

Dr. Sweetser and Benner had a long talk with Miss Howard and her father this morning, and in all probability the father will be committed to one of the insane asylums within a few days.

An inquiry at the hospital that Mrs. Howard is suffering from a fractured sternum (breastbone), there are no signs of other internal injuries and it is believed that her case is not very serious.

The fact that the window through which Mrs. Howard is said to have been thrown by her husband is not broken has led the neighbors to believe that the woman was not thrown through the window, but went through the window in order to escape, and either fell or jumped from the piazza roof to the ground. The physicians at the Lowell General hospital are also of the same opinion.

MR. BROWN

I had not expected that you would so soon descend to personalities. You say: "This oily tongued representative can memorize and deliver and say what he is told." Now, Mr. Brown, in order that you may have an opportunity to show how deficient I am in this respect, and how others are obliged to prepare what I say to the public, I would invite you to meet me upon the public platform Thursday night at any time or place you may designate and there discuss before the public the issues of this campaign. You may speak first and I will reply, so that certainly you cannot say that anybody has prepared my reply to you. You will have the advantage of coming to the meeting place all prepared. Will you accept? Kindly inform the public through the columns of this paper tomorrow, if you will accept this invitation.

BIG BANK ROBBERY

Burglars Stole $14,000 From
Bank in Pepperell

Fourteen thousand dollars in cash was secured by burglars who early today blew open the vault of the First National bank in Pepperell. The thoroughness and skill with which the work was performed leads to the belief on the part of the police that the burglars were professionals. Three men were in the party and although they were seen escaping in an automobile the authorities were unable to ascertain in which direction they departed. It is believed, however, that the burglars went from here to Groton.

The break was effected about 2 o'clock, at which time the last of three explosions was heard by Ernest Tarbell, who was sleeping next door. The two earlier detonations had been heard street but was soon distanced, although he went far enough to be reasonably certain that the machine took the road to Groton.

The return of Tarbell to the scene found a large crowd gathered about the bank including a few police of the town. None of these is on duty at night and at two o'clock in the morning, the time of the break, the streets are entirely deserted. The cashier, Henry Tarbell, who was immediately notified of the break, came to the bank to ascertain the amount taken. He found a considerable amount of bills and silver scattered about the vault, evidences of the hurry with which the burglars secured their booty. The large quantity of gold stored in one of the inner recesses of the safe was unheard that the men had been located. The police in these nearby cities and towns had been warned of the break and of the possibility that the burglars would seek escape in the direction of their cities or towns and were on a lookout for the auto in which they left Pepperell within ten minutes after the return of Mr. Tarbell from his short-lived pursuit of the men.

The explosives used by the burglars were centered upon the door of the vault and did little damage away from its immediate vicinity. The third explosion shattered the entire front of the wall behind which the vault was located. The glass counters and windows of the various bank officers and some of the interior fittings of the office were broken and thrown to the ground, but beyond this no damage was caused. The composition of the explosives used is not known, although it is believed to have been nitro-glycerine.

The Lowell police were notified of the robbery shortly after the discovery of the break, and the detectives and police officers were told of the break. Supt. W. B. Moffatt, in speaking of the matter to a representative of The Sun, stated that he had received a notification of the robbery, but that he was of the opinion that the work was done by professionals and that no Lowell men were connected with it, and further stated that while the cases sent to him were meant for the members of the department had been apprised of the break at the roll call and were keeping a sharp lookout for the men if they came to this city.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The annual report of Rear-Admiral Capps, chief constructor of the navy, is very largely devoted to a review of a controversy over the plans of the battleships North Dakota and Delaware. Admiral Capps disposes of various phases of criticisms that have been made of the plans by declaring that the recommendations for change made by the Newport conference related only to minor details over which there naturally would be differences of opinion and improvement from time to time. Estimates for the construction and repair of vessels at navy yards and at foreign stations amount to $8,340,000, an increase of $10,000 over the appropriations for the year. The amount estimated for "increase of the navy, construction and machinery for work for new vessels authorized by congress is $11,540,190, the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year being $12,322,952. For continuing work on submarine torpedo boats the construction and limit of cost of which already have been authorized by congress an estimate is made of $1,000,000, the amount appropriated by congress for work on two fleet collars, heretofore authorized the estimate is $2,100,000, the appropriation for the current fiscal year being $1,500,000.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Dec. 2.—What was expected to be the last stage before the formal act of reorganization of the properties allied to the Arnold Print works of North Adams, Mass., took place in the county court house here with the offering for sale at public auction of the North Pownal Mfg. Co. of North Pownal. The Arnold Print works, the Williamstown Mfg. Co., and the property of the Gallup & Houghton Co., which went into the hands of joint receivers in connection with the North Pownal Co. last fall, were disposed of at auction in Pittsfield, Mass. yesterday, to a committee of creditors for a total sum of $2,550,000. This same committee came to Bennington today prepared to bid in for the last remaining property of the allied interests which remained for them to acquire before a reorganization could be effected and the receivers discharged.

The property involved in today's sale included, besides the mills of the North Pownal Mfg. Co., a large number of tenements and storehouses adjacent to the mills and a considerable amount of real estate situated in the states of New York, Vermont and Massachusetts. It was stipulated in the court's decree authorizing the sale of the property that no sum under $150,000 should be accepted for the property and that a deposit of $25,000 was required. Burglars were professionals. Three

THE COVENANT

Made by the United States and Japan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The notes exchanged between the United States and Japan "declaring their policy in the far east" which have been the subject of correspondence between Secretary of State Root and Ambassador Takahira for some months, were made public at the state department last night. Accompanying the declaration are two letters, one from Mr. Takahira and one from Mr. Root, the former expressing the belief that a frank avowal of the aim, policy and intention of the two countries in the Pacific would not only tend to strengthen the relations of friendship and good neighborhood between the two nations, but would materially contribute to the preservation of the general peace, and the latter declaring that "this expression of mutual understanding is welcome to the government of the United States."

Each letter, in which is included the declaration, is dated November 30th, the day on which the exchanges took place.

The text of these letters was contained in The Associated Press despatches from London.

The purpose of the five separate notes was fully set forth in The Associated Press despatches of November 27th from Washington. In explicit terms they are as follows:

"1.—It is the wish of the two governments to encourage the free and peaceful development of their commerce on the Pacific ocean.

"2.—The policy of both governments, uninfluenced by any aggressive tendencies, is directed to the maintenance of the existing status quo in the region above mentioned, and to the defense of the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry in China.

"3.—They are accordingly firmly resolved reciprocally to respect the territorial possessions belonging to the each other in said region.

"4.—They are also determined to preserve the common interests of all powers in China by supporting by all pacific means at their disposal the independence and integrity of China and the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry of all nations in that empire.

"5.—Should any event occur threatening the status quo as above described or the principle of equal opportunity as above defined, it remains for the two governments to communicate with each other in order to arrive at an understanding as to what measures they may consider it useful to take."

The ambassador added: "The substance of the instrument which has already found its way to the press, called for exhaustive expression of opinions in this and other countries and there remains hardly anything to be added. As will be seen in their wording the notes are simply in the form of a declaration, and are not a treaty or agreement. They are simply a re-affirmation of what was declared by the two governments years ago, it was 'something like a transaction between trusted friends.'"

WOMAN IS DYING

Will Not Tell Who Shot Her

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2.—Miss Dahl Allen, one of the most beautiful young women in Pittsburgh, is at the West Pennsylvania hospital dying from a bullet wound. She was the daughter and roommate of Nan Patterson during the last career of that young woman in Pittsburgh.

Miss Allen, it now appears, was shot last Sunday morning, but it was not until yesterday afternoon that the police made the story public. Saturday night, according to the police, she entertained some young bloods in her room on Craft avenue. There was another young woman present, but the police deny that it was Nan Patterson. The orgy became so violent that the police were called. Before they could reach the house most of the party had left in an automobile.

In the apartments of Miss Allen the police found the young woman lying in a pool of blood. She had been shot through the abdomen with a .38-caliber revolver. It was found at the hospital that the bullet had passed clear through her body.

When she recovered consciousness, after an operation, Miss Allen absolutely refused to talk.

Miss Allen's rooms at the time the police entered were in a condition that showed that there had not only been a drunken party, but a fight as well.

BREACH OF PROMISE

Lawrence Girl's Charge Against Former City Physician

LAWRENCE, Dec. 2.—The breach of promise case of Miss Helen K. Stanley, daughter of Supt. J. J. Stanley of the city home, against ex-city physician Dr. George L. Black, was opened in superior court yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff claims that the defendant promised several times to marry her and she seeks $25,000 damages.

The plaintiff testified that she met Dr. Black in May, 1903. He was city physician and she was an attendant in the pauper department of the city home. He was then a married man, she said. Some months after his wife died he began to make love to the witness, she averred, and told her that he loved her and that he wanted to hold her affections. She testified that he called at her home, took her driving, to the theatre in Boston and to many dinner parties.

In September, 1904, the witness said, "he asked me to marry him. I said that I would and he asked me how I liked his home on Bailey street. I said that it would be all right."

"He kissed me repeatedly in public and private. He told me that he had a jealous makeup and that he wanted all my affections."

She said that he visited the hospital at the house almost every day and that he saw her nearly always before he went. He called to see her at her home and often staid to tea. After a time these visits to her house ceased owing to a feeling which arose between him and her parents, she said. He continued to meet her in the hospital of the institution, however, and repeated his profession of love. Marriage was frequently talked of by them, she testified.

The witness said she told the defendant in November, 1905, of her condition and he agreed to marry her.

"March 14 he said that he would marry me two days later," the witness asserted. "He told me to get ready for the wedding and that he would bear the expense. I got ready, even to packing my grip in which he told me to leave room for his clothing. He said that we would not need much clothing, as we would be away only a few days."

This conversation, she said, took place in the doctor's office. The doctor refused to marry her on the 16th, and continued to refuse, she said.

The plaintiff was on the stand when the case was suspended until today. Counsel for the plaintiff, in his opening, said that the child, with the paternity of which the plaintiff charges defendant, is living.

PURITAN ORATORY

Treated by Dr. Gunsaulus in Y.
M. C. A. Star Course

"The Later Eloquence of Puritanism," was the subject taken by Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, last night, in the Young Men's Christian Association Star Course at the First Congregational church.

The speaker is an orator of wide reputation and his address proved to be one of rare interest. He spoke in part as follows:

"Puritanism always was eloquent, and always will be eloquent. What is puritanism? It is the protest of the soul of man against impropriety. It is humanity standing in the presence of its own great problems, with a superb sense of self respect. There is a kind of uprightness which we have beheld in all the ages. There is something in the very makeup of humanity, making impossible all fine eloquence, so long as a man's eyes are on the ground.

Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of poslam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. DR. F. H. SMITH

Takes Exception to Mr. Brown's Charge

RELATIVE TO DELAY IN ATTENDING BEAULIEU

Says Man With Bullet in His Head Should Have Been Sent to Hospital or Another Doctor Promptly Called.

Dr. Foster H. Smith, city physician, takes exception to the statement made by Candidate Brown to the effect that he, the doctor, was responsible for keeping Wilfred Beaulieu three hours at the police station with a bullet in his head. As a matter of fact the man was but two hours at the station, from 4.25 to 6.25, without surgical treatment.

Dr. Smith is not supposed to give all his time to the city's business and when called by the police to attend Beaulieu he was out on professional calls and did not reach his house till 6.10. As soon as he heard of the call he hurried to the police station.

Mr. Brown says the police department was not to blame for the delay and Dr. Smith says he was not to blame. He says in every such case one of two things should be done: Either another doctor should be called or the man should be promptly sent to a hospital.

The charge made by Brown shows how erratic or unscrupulous he is and how careful to shield the police department. Dr. Smith is the son of the late Hermon J. Smith and a man whose main ambition is to rise to the high professional standing of his father, who died but a short time ago. He does not feel that he can allow such unjust statements as that made by Mr. Brown to go unchallenged.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—It is reported in official circles in Washington that Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, is likely to become

FELL 40 DEGREES

Thermometer Dropped to 30 in 24 Hours

Yesterday noon the thermometers in the vicinity of Merrimack square registered 70 degrees, and overcoats and outer garments generally were abandoned. This noon the same thermometers registered 30 degrees, a drop of 40 degrees in 24 hours.

It looked like a shower for a time yesterday, while today it looked like a snowstorm.

In between came a terrific wind storm last night that rattled blinds, windows and doors, while on the smooth paved thoroughfares down town, particularly Central street, huge clouds and whirlwinds of dust rushed into the nostrils and down the throats of all who had the misfortune to be down town.

And of such is our delightful New England climate.

THE THAW FIGHT

Resumed in the U. S. Circuit Court

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—The fight to have Harry Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, taken from Matteawan asylum, New York state to Pittsburgh for the purpose of appearing in bankruptcy proceedings there, was resumed in the United States circuit court of appeals here today, when former Gov. Stone of Pittsburgh, counsel for Roger O'Mara, trustee of Thaw's estate in bankruptcy, continued his argument which was begun yesterday. Mr. Stone, who filed the petition, taking the case to the appellate court, wants that tribunal to review the decision of Judge Young of the United States court for the western district of Pennsylvania, who dismissed a writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum granted during Judge Archbald's absence in the United States court for the middle district of Pennsylvania. The bankruptcy proceedings were originally brought in Judge Young's jurisdiction.

Counsel for New York state, who is opposing the efforts to have Thaw taken to Pittsburgh, declares that the desire to have Thaw taken to Pittsburgh is only a sham and that the Thaw interests have some other objects in view. This is resented by Mr. Stone.

EMPEROR'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—In honor of Emperor Francis Joseph's diamond jubilee, the city was illuminated last night on a scale of unprecedented brilliancy, the effect was enhanced by powerful searchlights and bengal lights playing from the high towers.

The pressure of the enormous crowds in the streets caused several serious accidents. Four persons were killed, forty seriously injured, and more than a hundred others slightly hurt.

It is estimated that there were 1,500,000 people in the streets.

YOUNG WOMAN

WAS SENT TO THE POLICE STATION

Mary Brennan, a young woman, was taken from the Y. W. C. Her case was not called in court this morning owing to the fact that it was deemed advisable to look into her mental condition.

WENT NO-LICENSE

Marlboro and New Bedford Voted to go "Dry"

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The champions of no-license yesterday succeeded in inducing New Bedford and Marlboro to vote in favor of closing the saloons. The feature of the municipal elections held yesterday in seven of the 23 cities of the state was the campaign carried on against no-license in the two places named. Northampton and Fitchburg voted to continue the sale of liquor.

With the exception of Fitchburg, where Mr. Frederick O'Connell (ind. citizen) was chosen, the cities re-elected their mayors.

The weather was fine and warm and a heavy vote was polled, especially in New Bedford, Marlboro, Fitchburg and Northampton.

Quincy rolled up a plurality of 1115 for Mayor Shea; majority against license 2158.

Fitchburg elected Representative M. Fred O'Connell mayor by a plurality of 128; majority for license 517; playground act accepted 3539 to 761.

New Bedford voted against license for the first time in 15 years, the majority being 134.

Northampton again chose Mayor O'Brien, his plurality being 231; the

"BLACK HAND" WORKFour Men Charged With Attempting to Extort Money

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The police of the North End are engaged in solving what they believe to be a "black hand" mystery.

Yesterday morning Patrolmen Westland and Dineen of division 1 arrested four Italians, who, it is alleged, are implicated in an attempt to extort money from Leonard Squillacioti, a prominent Italian, connected with a bank at 4 North square and a liquor store at 330 and 332 North street.

The prisoners, who gave their names as Tommaso Ferrari, aged 42; Alfred Migliore, 24; Pietro Thiarilli, 38, and Carmine D'Antoni, 34, all live at 4 Lothrop place, and all but Ferrari were arrested there shortly before 10 yesterday.

Ferrari was locked up when he offered the liquor store of Squillacioti and attempted to sell a $500 check, which had been left as a decoy in the hallway of the house in Lothrop place about 11 Monday night, for $150.

Ferrari was held in conversation with Squillacioti until Patrolman Dineen happened along, and then he was turned over to the officer. At the police station Ferrari is said to have talked freely and implicated the others who were found in the Lothrop place house. They were held on the charge of attempted extortion, and up to a late hour last night had not succeeded in obtaining bail. All four were arraigned in the municipal court this morning.

According to the police there have been several cases of alleged "black hand" threats during the past year.

Leonard Squillacioti has received five different threatening letters during the past week. In all the letters a request for money was made under penalty of death if he refused to comply.

The last of the letters was received Friday and in it the banker was ordered to contribute $500, which was considered a modest request, in view of the citizen demands which called for $1000. The Squillaciotis consulted with Capt. Kimball of the Hanover street police station. The letter stated that the $500 must be left behind the front door of 2 Lothrop place before midnight of November 30, and furthermore that the money must be left by the elder Squillacioti personally. After consulting with the police, the threatened man drew a check for $500 on the U. S. trust company yesterday and after notifying the bank officials not to honor the note, he waited until shortly after 11 Monday night, when he left the letter at the place indicated.

Nothing more was heard of the matter until shortly before 10 yesterday morning, when Ferrari appeared at the liquor store and stated that he had in his possession one of Mr. Squillacioti's checks for $500 and would sell it for $150. It was then that he was arrested. Ferrari, the police say, had the check with him, notwithstanding that he denied the fact. The young Squillacioti, and when Migliore was arrested the envelope was found upon him.

SAVES CHILDRENMalden Woman Slams Door on Mad Dog

MALDEN, Dec. 2.—Going suddenly mad yesterday afternoon, a suddenly mad fox terrier drove Mrs. Charles Moore and her three children into the street, and was captured and shot by Officers Costello and Ferguson only after a hard battle.

Mrs. Moore was sewing in the living room, when she looked up from her work and noticed that the animal was acting strangely. Her three children were rolling about the floor, playing with the dog and vastly amused by his antics.

When she started toward the animal, the sudden springing her, but she jumped quickly aside, and his bounding hurried him through an open door into the kitchen. Quickly closing this door, she hastily caught up the children and hurried them into the street, later calling up the police by telephone.

Officer Costello stunned the dog with his chair and was taken into the cellar and shot.

Y. W. C. A. Miss Briggs continued her reading of Miss Coppersfield last night, much to the enjoyment of the girls informally gathered in the parlor.

Miss Pearl Archibald of New York City, who is industrial secretary for New York and New Jersey, will lead the noon meeting today. The subject, "A Quest for Happiness."

Mr. Hovey's mandolin and guitar entertainment is tonight in the Kiltie hall at 8 o'clock. Mr. Harry Hovey, soloist, and Miss Helen Spencer, pianist. This entertainment is for Mr. Hovey's pupils and the members of the association.

Sunday, Dec. 6, is our regular missionary Sunday. There will be several short addresses, a large chorus choir, and solos. All are cordially invited to this service.

Miss Archibald gave an interesting talk on industrial work, its history and present extent. She completed the subject this morning in another lecture.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

That most riotous of laughing successes, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," is coming to the Opera House tonight. It is an excellent comedy including Miss Lavina Shannon and other artists of note engaged in its interpretation. The famous farce is interpreted with the emphatic approval of New York, the no less emphatic approval of London and the most positive commendation of the theatregoers in every other city in which it has been played. The consensus of expert opinion has it that, considered from every standpoint, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is by far the greatest farce comedy produced in the last twenty years. Certain it is that as a laugh producer there is no play now being presented that can even approach this seemingly simple recital of the domestic troubles of the Temple family.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" introduces to the public the ever interesting question as to whether a faithful husband is ever justified in telling a white lie—when his charming but obstinate wife refuses to credit the truth. Jack Temple has been away from home all night because when he was in a Paris hotel the machinery stopped working, which fact resulted in the detention of Mr. Temple in the hotel. The next morning when the machinery was repaired, the wheel revolved, and Mr. Temple was allowed to once again set foot on terra firma. Mrs. Temple rejects this explanation—so poor Jack invents an imaginary friend, declaring that he stopped within the evening previous, and from this one evening's innocent white lie arises a mass of the most amazing farcical complications.

HUSTON OPERA SINGERS The Boston Opera Singers company will open an engagement of three nights commencing Thursday, Dec. 10, at the Opera House. The company numbers sixty and includes artists well known in this country. The sale of seats will open at the box office on Saturday, Dec. 3, for the entire engagement. Persons residing out of town may secure their seats by writing the manager of the theatre.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

It's hard to believe that sea lions are capable of being taught some mighty difficult tricks, but inasmuch as seeing is believing—and they can be seen twice a day at Hathaway's theatre—it may be admitted that they tend themselves rather better to feats of skill on the stage than do some of the more highly developed animals.

Capt. Winston's five sea lions juggle balls, hats, balloons, etc., with rare skill. At the threshold, a powerful one-act playlet, is presented by Walter Law and company, in a convincing manner. The story told is most dramatic. Associated with Mr. Law are J. Chester Law and Miss Virginia Martin. Other acts on this good bill are: Sam Jansell, imitator of stage personages; Barry & Wolford, singers and parodists; Leeds & Lamar, Australian skit artists; Carbrey brothers, dancers; Charles Herrera, in aerial bamboo feats, and the Hathascope.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, with a special matinee Saturday afternoon.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Talk about funny moving pictures: those at the academy this week appear to be the best laugh provokers ever witnessed in Lowell, judging from the roars of laughter that greet them at each performance. The vaudeville bill is a show in itself. Today is the closing day for the present bill, for tomorrow sees a complete change of pictures and vaudeville acts the academy being the only theatre in Lowell to make a complete mid-week change.

GEORGE DANIELS DEAD

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—George F. Daniels, one of the best known shoe manufacturers in the country, died of pneumonia at his home in Brookline yesterday, 55 years old. He was head of the firm of George F. Daniels & Co. of Boston and Lynn and St. Louis. He was president of the New England Shoe and Leather exchange for many years and had also been president of the Boot and Shoe club, and Handel and Haydn society.

TYNGSBORO

The county commissioners held a hearing Monday at the home of Henry J. Tollen in Dunstable to consider the laying out of a new county road in Dunstable and Tyngsboro passing near the Walley house on the old Forest Hill farm. The attendance was large and there were lively discussions pro and con. The commissioners took the matter under advisement.

The Mechanics Savings Bank, 203 Merrimack st. will pay interest at the rate of four per cent. on money deposited on or before Saturday, Dec. 5th.

More Trouble

There is more trouble in the Merrimack Valley league. The Lawrence teams are not satisfied with the schedule arranged at the Monday night meeting in this city, and have asked for a further consideration of the schedule. There will therefore be a meeting of the league held in Lawrence at the Franklin hotel on next Monday night. As a result of this arrangement, the games arranged for this week will be postponed.

DRACUT

By an oversight in failing to have an article in the warrant relative to the election of a moderator to preside over the special town meeting called to consider the moth problem, it was necessary to postpone the meeting for one week, and the meeting will be held Monday night. The warrant calls for an appropriation of $1000 to continue the work of destroying the gypsy and brown tail moths.

TOMMY QUILL

Got the Decision Over Young Erne

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—After 12 rounds of boxing that aroused but little enthusiasm, Tommy Quill of Brockton got the award over Young Erne of Philadelphia at the Armory A. A. last night.

Both men were in good shape, but they showed little disposition to exert themselves, and they clinched so frequently that the spectators early lost interest in the contest.

Erne did the greater part of his hitting with the left, and while he jabbed Quill frequently he seldom got away without being countered on the body.

Quill paid special attention to Erne's body, and as soon as they got into a clinch he put either right or left on the wind, ribs or kidneys. A number of times he hooked Erne on the face or jaw with the left and in some of the rounds got over some right counters on the jaw.

Erne did not put up the clever battle he did on his previous visit here which was a big surprise.

There was no question about the decision being correct, for Quill outscored Erne in most of the rounds.

In the opening bout Young Nixon of the North End got the award over Young McDonald in six rounds. In the second bout James Sullivan outclassed Young Kelley so much that the referee stopped the bout in the second round and gave Sullivan the award.

In the semi-final contest Billy Rolfe won the decision over Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in eight rounds.

SIX ROUGH ROUNDS

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 2.—At city hall last night Mike Cunningham of Lewiston and Tom Larrabee of Bath fought six of the roughest rounds seen here this season.

There was no science, but mad rushes and fierce lunges. The first three rounds were Larrabee's, who opened the bout in whirlwind style and put Cunningham on the defensive. During these rounds the Bath boy landed frequently and hard, but in the fourth Cunningham came in stronger, and in the fifth and sixth did good work, especially in the sixth when he had Larrabee coming to protect himself from severe punishment. The go finished with both men on their feet.

In the semi-finals George Phalen and Joe Cheltra, both of Lewiston, went six rounds to a draw, in which the honors, if any, were Phalen's.

In the preliminaries Tony Roberts and Maurice McCormick, both of Lewiston, went three rounds to a draw, and Young Nadeau had the better of Tommy Breen in four rounds. "Honest" Dennis Dunn of Lewiston was the referee.

SEN. GIBSON

SENT HOME BECAUSE OF SMALL-POX SCARE

MONTPELIER, Vt., Dec. 2.—The most sensational feature of the proceedings of the Vermont legislature yesterday was the sending to his home yesterday noon of Senator E. W. Gibson of Brattleboro. Senator Gibson's home at Brattleboro is quarantined because of smallpox in the family. The senator came here Sunday evening to take up his legislative duties accompanied by his 10-year-old son. He stopped at the Pavilion hotel, but it being known there that he had come from a quarantined home, people were suspicious of him and even the girls in the dining room refused to wait upon him.

Yesterday morning Dr. William Lindsay, city health officer, called upon Senator Gibson and advised him to go to his home in Brattleboro. He left yesterday noon accompanied by his son. When Senator Gibson came here Sunday from Brattleboro he brought with him a certificate from Dr. H. D. Nelson, secretary of the state board of health, stating that he had been ill of smallpox because of the presence of his son in his home here. The local health officer decided to be on the safe side.

HAVERHILL CHARTER $40,000 CHECK

Discussed at Men's Unitarian Club by Haverhill Man

Some Good Pointers on Charter Reform for the City of Lowell — Features of the New Charter

The Men's club of the First Unitarian church held a very interesting meeting last evening and listened to Mr. Albert L. Bartlett of Haverhill, who was the guest of honor. Mr. George C. Brock, president of the club, presided and read a few letters from gentlemen who could not attend. Mr. Bartlett spoke on Haverhill's new charter. He held an automobile wheel with him, which was at all times a subject of interest. Many questions were asked him and he answered them all cheerfully and satisfactorily.

He started in by telling of the conditions in Haverhill that demanded or at least warranted a change of that city's charter. He said that President Eliot went to Haverhill one night having been invited there to address a club meeting and he spoke on the so-called Des Moines plan. Always an interesting, comprehensive and convincing speaker, Mr. Eliot was especially so on the charter question and when he had finished he had something in the wind that bespoke a remedy for Haverhill's municipal ills.

Under the old system in Haverhill there was a mayor, seven aldermen, representing as many wards, 11 common councilmen, and a school board numbering no less than 22. This aggregation was too great and it was decided to prune a bit.

The men who had heard Mr. Eliot talked the Des Moines plan over and decided to make an attempt to put it through to Haverhill. The new charter provides for a salary of $2700 for the mayor and $1300 for an alderman, a belief being fixed that the salary would demand better men than a majority of those who would offer themselves as candidates without pay.

The first move in Haverhill was to form a civic society and a charter embodying the Des Moines idea was drafted. The thing was talked in small circles at first and finally there developed a general discussion and soon it was known that the charter was assuming form. Almost everybody seemed to take to the idea and the result was a big mass meeting at the city hall and it was recorded that men who went there as remonstrants went away strong advocates of the proposition.

Sections of the new documents were printed every Friday night and sent, with explanations, to every voter in the city. By this means the voter was educated and informed as to the merits or demerits of the documents and when it came election day the proposition was carried by about 800 votes.

Haverhill's charter in form is like that of Des Moines. There is a board of five called the mayor and aldermen. The mayor's functions are the same as those of the aldermen, no greater, but he presides. The mayor is one of five members of the school board and is chairman of that body. No party designations are permitted on the ticket.

"At the preliminary elections," the other day," said Mr. Bartlett, "Haverhill chose two out of a field of seven candidates to be the candidates for mayor. One of them will be chosen mayor next Tuesday. Out of a big field of aldermen aspirants eight were selected as the nominees for aldermen, and the result was such that at the election next Tuesday it will be practically impossible to choose any but four first-class men. The school committee, unfortunately, was rather neglected, and I shall for a time be in the city, but I shall be back in time to see the election."

Replying to questions, Mr. Bartlett said that the Des Moines plan was named by the council of five, one member being chosen every year for a three year term. The ordinary board of administration remains as before. Any administrative matter is handled by the Des Moines plan, a portion of one-third of the voters and a new election. Then

Dr. Huntington Found it Under Plate

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Rev. William R. Huntington, rector of Grace church, has been paid the double compliment by his congregation of having his effort to resign met with a unanimous request that he withdraw the resignation and of having more than $40,000 presented to him as a voluntary contribution from his congregation in token of the high regard in which he is held.

Dr. Huntington Sunday celebrated the 25th anniversary of his coming to Grace church as rector. A month ago he celebrated his 70th birthday anniversary. In view of his having reached his three score and ten and in view of his long service with the church, Dr. Huntington decided that he might properly retire from active service. In letter to the vestry of the church, he expressed himself as ready to step aside, giving as his reasons his age and term of service.

The vestry voted unanimously that Dr. Huntington be requested to withdraw his resignation. Quite unofficially a movement was started to raise a fund of $25,000 as a present to Dr. Huntington. So eager were the members of the congregation to express their regard for their rector that the fund, when counted, totaled considerably in excess of $40,000. Sunday morning when Dr. Huntington sat down to breakfast he found under his plate a check covering the amount mentioned.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Rev. Reuben S. Smith, the evangelist, was the speaker in the second of a series of evangelistic services at the Paige Street Free Baptist church last night. The speaker took his text from the story of the raising of Lazarus from the dead, and made lengthy comment on that portion of the scriptures.

RESTRICT THE SALE OF FIREARMS.

We notice that Wilfred Beaulieu, who shot his wife the other day, bought his revolver in a pawn shop shortly before he committed the crime. This is another proof of the necessity of greater vigilance in the sale of firearms. In such cases we believe the name and address of the purchaser should be taken and should be open for daily inspection by the police. Unless something be done to restrict the sale of firearms these crimes will continue and criminal characters of every description will continue to carry dangerous weapons. If the law required every purchaser of a revolver or a shotgun to show a permit from the police department there would be fewer of these crimes by irate husbands. Such a regulation would lessen the sale of firearms, but who will say the community would not be benefited?

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE?

In the accident on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by which one man was killed and fifty injured, several of these fatally, it is plain that there was some very bad blundering on the part of the railroad employees. The accident will be investigated no doubt with the usual result. There will not be sufficient evidence to place the blame positively upon anybody. Many such accidents occur as the result of a combination of circumstances to which several people indirectly contribute. Thus the responsibility is so scattered that nobody is held amenable to punishment for the accident. Hence one accident follows another, and nobody is punished, the only penalty being that the company may have to pay damages to those who were injured, but no amount of damages will compensate for the loss of life or permanent disability to people whose life prospects are blasted and for whom life-long suffering and sorrow substituted for health and happiness.

MR. BRYAN AS A CANDIDATE SHOULD SUBSIDE.

Already there is talk in some quarters of the possibility of Mr. Bryan again being a candidate for the presidency in 1912. It is feared that any rival leader coming to the front in the meantime would adopt a reactionary policy and depart from the radical stand taken by the democratic party under Mr. Bryan. That, of course, is a possibility, but it is not at all probable. In any case we consider it the duty of Mr. Bryan to renounce all intention of being again a candidate. He can continue to fight for reform as he has done in the past, but he cannot continue to make himself the instrument of defeating such reform by his candidacy for the presidency.

If Mr. Bryan wants to maintain his reputation for honesty and unselfishness in advocating political reforms he will declare most emphatically that under no condition will he be a candidate in 1912.

After his second defeat he stated for a time that he would not be again a candidate, but as the time for the convention approached he gradually yielded to the appeals of his friends to become a candidate, and even entered upon an elaborate campaign for the nomination. Had he retired at that time and left the field clear for the nomination of Governor Johnson of Minnesota, we might have a different story to tell today.

The democratic victory scored in several different states that gave their electoral vote to Mr. Taft, indicates that it was Bryan the people feared as a candidate. Had Johnson been the standard bearer in all probability he would have carried these states against republican opposition.

That unusual anomaly should be enough to convince Mr. Bryan that he can never be successful as a candidate for the presidency. Two defeats are sufficient to prove that, and the third defeat should place it beyond any question whatsoever. To talk of running a fourth time is simply sacrificing the interests of the democratic party and the chances of democratic reform to the interests and, may we say, the ambitions of an individual.

Mr. Bryan does not seem to understand the causes of his recent defeat, and he has called for explanations from democrats throughout the country. It is a peculiarity of some candidates to find the cause for their defeat entirely outside themselves. They blame certain interests, certain organizations or certain political workers, while at the same time the real cause lay with themselves.

Mr. Bryan advocated government ownership of railroads and he advocated radical measures in regard to trusts, while in his first campaign he advocated the free coinage of silver. The last named policy led the moneyed interests of the country and even a large portion of the business men to oppose him as a man of dangerous policies. Not that his advocacy was entirely wrong at the time but as after developments proved it was inexpedient.

When he declared for the private ownership of railroads he still further alarmed these same interests. It was thus some of his own utterances and principally that relative to the ownership of railroads with his opposition to the trusts that led to his recent defeat.

The country had passed through two years of depression and the business interests held out the threat that Bryan's election would bring four years more of depression. The people were afraid to risk his election and in order to avoid the possibility of prolonging the hard times many democrats voted for Taft. That explains Mr. Bryan's defeat, and there is no need of any long inquiry into the causes. Mr. Bryan should know them very well if he could view them from an unbiased standpoint.

The inexorable logic of the election is there, and the logic of three successive defeats should convince him and his party that he is not wanted and that unless something unprecedented should happen to strengthen him politically, his defeats are proof sufficient that he can never be elected president of this republic.

SEEN AND HEARD

Snow shovels outside the hardware stores are gentle reminders that winter is near at hand.

At this time last year the lovers of the steel blades were enjoying ice skating.

Now is the time when people begin to think of Christmas and the presents which they will have to purchase. Several young men around town have bet a small roll of money on the city election, hoping to win, and have doubled the amount they have at the present time. Those who have a little to bet had better keep enough to buy those presents for when two bet one is sure to lose and the writer has heard of both losing.

The members of the "sons of rest," whose principal business is watching the men working in the sewer in Merrimack street and sunning themselves on the street corners, are around telling the candidates for office what they did for the cause before the nomination and what they are going to do between now and election day.

"I guess I'll take a month off," said the office boy yesterday as he proceeded to tear the November sheet from the calendar.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PUTTING OFF CONSTRUCTION WORK

Manufacturers' Record: The disposition to put off until activity has returned construction work which should be done during times of depression causes many people to lose a very considerable portion of the cost of their buildings by reason of the higher cost of construction. The time to build, whether it be a house or a factory, is during periods of low prices of materials and labor in order to get the benefit of these conditions, and be ready to take advantage of the factory output of the higher market for finished goods which comes with every line of business prosperity. This country cannot stop growing. With its vast agricultural potentialities, with its population increasing at the rate of about 1,000,000 a year, with machinery and clothes and railroads wearing out and needing to be replaced, we shall soon see an increasing demand for all building materials.

Touching on plays drawn from the classic poets, he declared that their ideals could not be realized on the stage. At the annual Michigan Union banquet at the University of Michigan, Lawrence W. Harbour, representing the Michigan union of New York, announced that plans had been perfected and funds subscribed for the erection of a 300,000 dormitory, with an immense "commons" or eating room, in Ann Arbor. The dormitory will be a six-story building, at Williams and Maynard streets, capable of housing 300 to 400 men. The commons will be a one-story building, with a capacity for boarding from 500 to 1,000 students. The land has been acquired, and the plan has been approved by the university senate.

An organization which is expected to result in the establishment of many industrial schools throughout New York state was effected when a state branch of the National society for Promoting Industrial Education was organized with these officers: President, Joseph F. The efforts of the state branch will be exerted to bring together all the forces interested in trade and industrial schools and education in order that the law passed at the last session of the legislature making it permissible to establish trade schools, brought into the state may be made most effective.

Superintendent of Schools Cooley of Chicago has submitted a plan to the board of education for a system of three technical high schools for girls, to be located in each of the three divisions of the city, and to correspond to the present technical high school for boys. REFORM CLUB

RECEIVED A NUMBER OF PROPOSITIONS LAST NIGHT

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Lowell Reform club was held in Wyman's Exchange last night. Since the inauguration of the meetings the membership has been rapidly increasing. At last night's meeting many propositions were received and several candidates were initiated.

During the month of November 57 names were added to the membership roll.

At the close of the business session, short addresses were made by the former presidents of the club, and every speaker urged the members to keep the cold water band wagon moving all the time.

The no-license sentiment runs very high among the members. The pool tournament closes Christmas eve. Committees were appointed to make preparations for the observance of the 33d anniversary of the founding of the L. R. C. which comes Jan. 13 next.

STUART MURPHY

Spoke on "Municipal Problems" Last Night

At the First Presbyterian church last evening, James Stuart Murphy gave an interesting talk on "Municipal Problems" before a large audience.

"In the first place, the city charter is hopelessly out of date. The charter of a city is practically the same, or should be the same, as the charter of a corporation. For the city is a large corporation. It is pretty generally agreed that Lowell's charter has outlived its usefulness. Occasionally corporations change their charters, but, as a rule, municipalities change theirs more frequently, to meet the change in municipal situations and problems. Lowell hasn't changed hers as yet. There is the Des Moines, Iowa, plan, which is simplified somewhat in the Haverhill charter. Then, too, there is the method of changing the charter by the abolition of the common council. I favor such abolition, but I believe the time is hardly ripe for it. The present method of expenditure is certainly not the best. I favor a board of public works, composed of men of integrity and known business ability, who shall have the expenditures of all sums of money.

Relative to the police board Mr. Murphy declared for the separation of the police and licensing board.

"I am loath to believe the charges that have been made that many of the men in our departments at city hall are thieves and grafters. I don't believe that. I believe they use antiquated methods, some of them, in the running of their departments and, as a result, there are small leaks. All of these together make an unnecessary expenditure every year. It isn't a question of the office holders there having their hands out; it's the leaks. There is much red tape in the board of health. So much of it is there that it is hard to get a fellow to try to have the board investigate anything? If you have, then you know how much anybody there ever found out about it."

In conclusion Mr. Murphy praised the street department, saying that the city was getting more out of that department than it had ever got before.

With Rooney at the head of the team and a number of this year's players in the lineup the team to represent the school next year will undoubtedly be much faster than the '08 team.

BROWN SPEAKS

In Ward Two and Middlesex Village

Candidate Brown addressed meetings at the polling booth at the corner of Cross and Willie streets and at the Middlesex Independent club last evening. At the former place a large gathering including many noisy youngsters was in attendance. Mr. Brown's remarks to a great extent were in repetition of what he has previously set forth on many occasions. Occasionally he sprang a new one. For instance he said:

"I don't think we need any liquor squad if we allow our country cousins to come in here and detect violations. Constables of towns have come here and found violations. Why hasn't our own liquor squad done this?"

"I don't think you need a liquor squad at all if our country cousins will come in here and do what these same men are supposed to do."

"Another thing I want to put before you, and it is this: Why are the heads of all of the departments against me? Why is the president of the water board, who for the past six years was against Casey, with that candidate now? Is he afraid of an investigation of his office?"

At the Middlesex club Mr. Brown stated that he would make a clean sweep of the police department. "A suicide occurred at the police station recently," said Mr. Brown, "and I think with some precaution such a thing could have been prevented."

Dacey Bobs Up

Somebody asked Brown who offered him the $10,000 whenupon James Dacey precipitated trouble by an insulting allusion to the class of men to which the questioner belonged. The man made an attempt to assault him but spectators prevented trouble.

BROWN CHALLENGED

To Meet Casey in Debate Tomorrow Evening

Ex-Mayor Casey Will Allow His Opponent to Speak First and Will Then Reply to Him—Mr. Casey Addressed Two Big Meetings Last Night

And now comes Mr. Casey with a challenge to his opponent, Mr. Brown, to discuss the issues with him on the same platform. Mr. Casey gives his opponent until tomorrow morning to accept or decline the challenge.

It is a 10 to 1 shot that Mr. Brown will not accept, but if he should the debate will take place tomorrow evening and will be the biggest political attraction offered in Lowell in many years.

Mr. Casey addressed meetings at Centralville Odd Fellows' hall and at the Middlesex Village Independent club last night.

He went first to Centralville where a crowd that extended out to the street awaited him. He was cheered lustily as he forged his way to the platform.

Aldermanic Candidate Jeremiah Connors accompanied him to the platform. When the cheering had subsided Ex-Mayor Casey spoke as follows:

"Mr. Brown is going about with a real live imagination, endeavoring to impress the citizens with the belief that he is the most injured candidate that ever appeared before the public. Yesterday he stated he could get $50,000, but he wouldn't take it. Today he says that $25,000 is being pooled to defeat him.

"What a beautiful imagination my opponent has, and what will he say next! Will Mr. Brown, for the remainder of the campaign, please state facts? Have not the public heard enough of your inconsistent and irrelevant statements? Why do you not present some reasons, if you feel that you can, why you should be mayor, besides indefinite statements that carry with them no meaning?"

"You stated today, 'It is splendid about the city that I am the candidate of Moffatt.' Are you quite sure that you are not? If you are not, why are all the officials who annually do the political bidding of the superintendent of police so active to secure your election?"

"You say that you will not enter into controversy with your opponent. Why is that? Don't you feel that the public expects you shall show wherein you are fit and wherein your opponent is not?"

"I stated that if elected mayor I would prefer charges, and after substantiating those charges, bring about the removal of the present superintendent of police. Will you say that if you are elected mayor, you will bring about the removal of the superintendent of police?"

"You say that you will not enter into controversy with your opponent. Why is that? Don't you feel that the public expects you shall show wherein you are fit and wherein your opponent is not?"

HOSPITAL STAFF Met With Trustees of the Lowell General Hospital

The regular quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital was held yesterday afternoon, President Jacob Rogers in the chair. By request, the hospital staff met with the trustees to hear the report of the committee in charge of the tuberculosis camp during the past season. This committee consists of Dr. T. G. McGannon, chairman, Dr. W. G. Eaton, Dr. J. H. Lambert and Dr. Geo. L. Van Dusen, secretary.

The committee reported that the camp was opened May 14th, and closed October 10th. The whole number of patients admitted was 39; average number in the camp 24. Total number of days treatment 3315.

For purposes of study the patients were divided into 3 groups—those remaining less than 30 days, from 30 to 60 days, from 60 to 90 days, from 90 to 120 days, and from 120 to 150 days. It is well known that at the present time there is no positive specific used in the treatment of tuberculosis, the chief object being to improve the general condition of the patient in every way possible.

Therefore, it may be accepted as a general rule that when the patients are gaining in weight they are making progress toward recovery. There are occasional exceptions to this rule, but nevertheless the rule is a good guide.

The report of the committee showed that of the 6 patients who were in camp less than 30 days only one gained in weight; of the 7 in camp from 30 to 60 days, two gained weight; of the 5 in camp from 60 to 90 days, four gained weight; of the 6 in camp from 90 to 120 days, all gained weight; of the 16 in camp from 120 to 150 days, 13 gained in weight, no change in 2. Some of the more marked cases showed gains in weight from 10 to over 20 pounds each.

Take the 15 cases that were in camp the longest, and as just stated, it is shown that 13 gained in weight, while two showed no change.

It must be true that any treatment which gave us a result like this must be of the highest value. It also shows that there must be some very marked reasons why the two cases did not gain while the 13 showed gains under the same treatment and for the same length of time.

Therefore, it is safe to conclude that without this treatment these two cases would have been in a most deplorable condition by the end of the season. Taking all the cases, those who remained in the camp even only a few days as well as those who remained the whole season, the report shows that 26 of the 39 gained in weight, 8 showed no change, and 5 actually lost in weight. These five cases left the camp voluntarily, or were told by the committee that it would hardly be wise for them to remain longer.

It has certainly been proven that the great majority of the cases are materially benefited by a season's sojourn at the camp, and one is equally certain in arriving at the conclusion that the other cases would have been in a worse condition without this out-door life.

In concluding this report the committee said: "Eight patients were in camp during 1907 and one, both in 1906 and 1907. These patients followed the open air treatment during the winter, so far as their home surroundings would permit, and the majority of them were in better condition on admission to camp this year than last.

"The results accomplished this season compare very favorably with those of other camps and sanatoria, and while a period of five months is too short to accomplish many permanent cures, the educational value of such a camp, not alone to the patients themselves, but to their friends and the community at large, is impossible to estimate.

"The committee in charge was Mrs. Thomas McTeague, chairman, assisted by Misses Alice Leahy, Mary Cox, Esther Pope and Blanche Kelly.

"A careful study of the cases serves to emphasize more fully the necessity for the early recognition of the first indications of disease, for while tuberculosis can be cured in its incipient stages it becomes more and more difficult to arrest as it progresses.

"We would appeal to the medical profession of Lowell and vicinity to use every effort possible to induce their incipient cases of tuberculosis to take advantage of the opportunity which Mr. Ayer's generosity has made possible.

"The reading of the report was followed with a very interesting discussion by the members of the hospital staff, and many questions were asked by the trustees, in order that the subject might be as thoroughly understood as possible. Each physician laid great stress on the educational value of this camp, and gave repeated illustrations of the value of such a camp to Lowell and its vicinity.

As a result of the object lessons at the camp more people were becoming more and more convinced of the value of fresh air at night as well as during the day. Living and sleeping rooms were being high air, and the old horrors of tuberculosis being dispelled, and the value of surrounding home life with the best of hygienic conditions was being better understood and more completely carried out. The physicians spoke in the strongest terms possible of the great necessity of recognizing tuberculosis in its early stages.

As the committee said, "Tuberculosis can be cured," only it must be recognized in its early stages before extensive damage was done to the lung tissue. A strong appeal was made that more work be done in educating the public to the necessity of paying better attention to throat and lung troubles, especially when there was a family history of weak lungs, or when the hard cold was associated with loss of flesh or general weakness of the whole system.

There was a very commendable attendance of the trustees and members of the hospital staff, and nearly everyone present took occasion to express their great appreciation of what Mr. Frederick Fanning Ayer was doing for the hospital, for this whole community, and especially for those afflicted with some form of tuberculosis.

TAYLOR CONFIRMED

As Member of the Board of Health by Aldermen

DR. CHARLES W. TAYLOR
Elected Member of the Board of HealthTHOMAS J. BEAN
The Retiring Member of the Health BoardALDERMAN BAILEY
Whose Vote Secured Taylor's Election

Supt. Southworth Advocates Adoption of Resolution on Merrimack and Concord River Delta

The board of aldermen last night confirmed Mayor Farnham's appointment of Dr. Charles W. Taylor to the board of health, all of which means that Thomas J. Bean, after Dr. Taylor has qualified, is no longer a member of the board of health.

It was stated in The Sun yesterday that Dr. Taylor had been appointed by the mayor, but the opinion of the wise ones at city hall was that he would not be confirmed. They reckoned without their host, however, Alderman Bailey, for it was his vote on which the question has been hanging, and he voted for Dr. Taylor.

The board was called to order at 8:45 o'clock and every alderman, big and little, was in his seat.

The following jurors were drawn by Alderman Butterworth:

George B. Mevis, 52 Methuen street, clerk.

Frank E. Butler, 400 Westford street, pattern-maker.

Frederick A. Spear, 576 Westford street, general agent.

Frank S. Whitte, 50 Wentworth avenue, plumber.

Patrick Kilbride, 14 Stanley street, grocer.

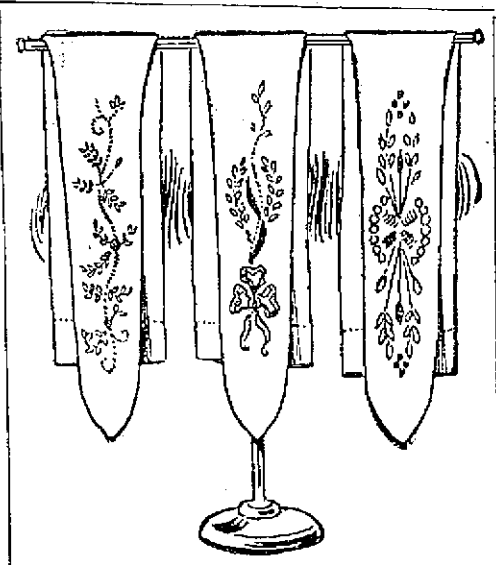

Joseph Perron, 47 Moody street, barber.

The resolution for modifying the southerly boundary of the channel and of the bed of the Merrimack river was read. E. E. Dunbar and Agent Southworth of the Massachusetts mills spoke in advocacy of the resolution as did Alderman O'Hearn, who said he had made a careful study of the project. He said the city would derive a benefit by the change, that it would give the city more taxable land. It is the purpose of the Massachusetts mills to erect, at some time, additional buildings.

The resolution, after Alderman

Reconsideration was refused and the council adjourned.

FUNERALS

WHITE—Mrs. Martha White, widow of the late Joseph White of Billerica, who died at West Concord, N. H., recently, was born in Billerica Aug. 10, 1811. Consequently she was in the 97th year of her age. She was the daughter of Asa and Nancy (Wyman) Holden and had two sisters and five brothers. In early years she attended the common schools and academy of the town. In 1823 she united with the First Baptist church, of which she remained a faithful and consistent member until death. In 1838 she was married to Joseph White of Bedford. They made their home in East Billerica until his death in 1872. After his death Mrs. White lived for a time not only in Billerica but in Burlington and Lexington. About 15 years ago she went to live in West Concord, N. H., where she had resided until the end came. She left no issue. For four score years she has maintained a constant love for the church. She never had failed to pray for it. Her entire life had been one of remarkable devotion to the cause of Christ. May the sweetness of her Christian life bear fruit long years after her departure.

Appropriate services were held in the church at Billerica, and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. C. Wright. The interment was at Fox Hill cemetery beside the remains of her husband. The funeral was largely attended, and the flowers bore evidence of the esteem in which she was held.

ROBERTS—Funeral services were held over the remains of Lindley Sylvester Roberts, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the undertaking establishment of W. W. Colby. Many members of Lawrence lodge, No. 65, R. P. O. E., were present as he was a popular member of that fraternity. The Rev. Mr. Wood officiated.

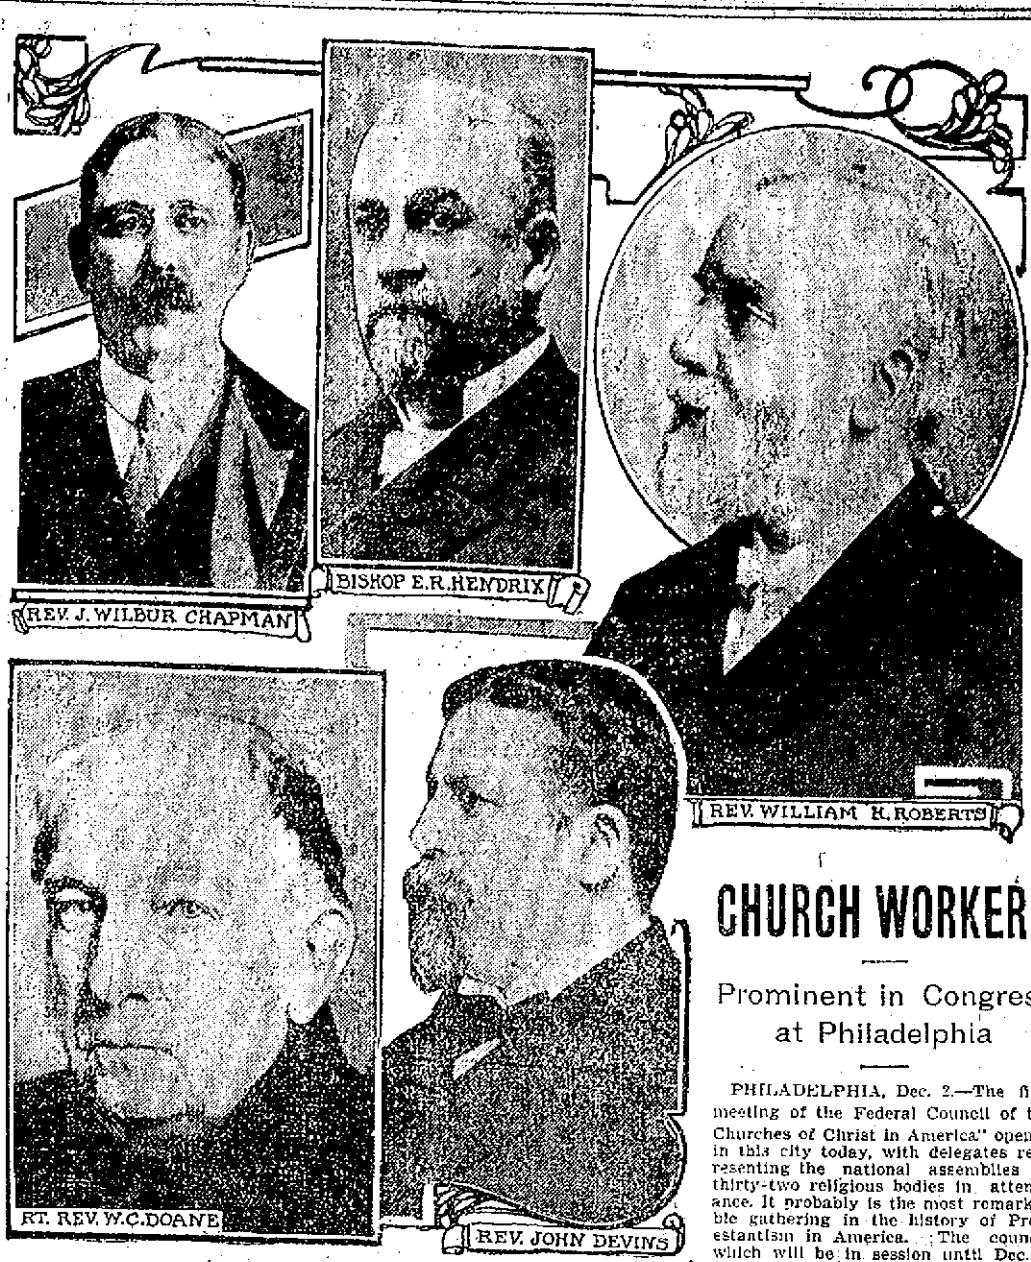

Tuesday morning the body was forwarded to New Hampton, N. H., where it will be interred in the family lot. A delegation will accompany the remains to their final resting place.—Lawrence Telegram.

CONSTANTINEAU—The funeral of Mrs. Cyrille Constantineau took place yesterday morning from the home of her son, Napoleon Constantineau, 25 Livingston street. Solemn funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church, Rev. Frs. Lamotte, Barrette and Ouellette, O. M. I., officiating. The bearers were C. H. Girard, Joseph Louf, R. J. Sabail and Joseph, J. W. and Benjamin Twohey. The choir sang Perpetua's funeral mass. Frank Gondeau, tenor, and Joseph A. Bernard played the organ. At the offertory, Mrs. Joseph A. Bernard sang "Pie Jesu" and at the communion Mr. Gondeau sang "Miserere." At the end of the services, the choir sang "The Prodigal." The Third Order was represented by Mesdames Dupont, Lambert, Beaudoin and Bourgeois and St. Anne's society by Mesdames Chabannes, Beaudoin, Bernard and Sabail. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, and Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I., officiated at the grave. Undertaker Amodeo Armand had charge.

DOHRANE—The funeral of John Dohrane was held Tuesday afternoon in his late residence on Agawam street and was very largely attended by relatives and friends.

Rev. E. W. Bigelow, pastor of the First Congregational church, of which Dohrane was a member, officiated and was assisted by Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Hopkins and Mrs. Pepin sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." The Christian's Good-bye hymn was sung and there was a profusion of beautiful flowers as evidence of sympathy and esteem.

The burial took place from the Grand Union lodge, I. O. O. F., con-

CHURCH WORKERS

Prominent in Congress at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—The first meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America opened in this city today, with delegates representing the national assemblies of thirty-two religious bodies in attendance. It probably is the most remarkable gathering in the history of Protestantism in America. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—John Alan White, 20 years old, of Walton, N. The body was found by White's roommate, Harry L. Agard. It is thought that White's mind was temporarily deranged from overwork and worry over the illness of his brother and sister with typhoid fever.

ANSWERS BROWN

Ex-Mayor Casey at the Machine Shop Gate Today

Hon. James B. Casey appeared at the Machine shop gate in Jackson street at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, and addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering of workmen. Despite the blustering weather, which made standing around rather uncomfortable, the crowd was even larger than on the day previous, and there is much more enthusiasm. Mr. Casey's challenge to Mr. Brown to meet him in debate on the same platform was received with cheers.

MR. CASEY'S SPEECH.

Mr. Casey spoke in part as follows: Yesterday at this place my opponent continued along the same line of talk that has characterized his utterances ever since he became a candidate for mayor. He is against everything and for that reason you should, he expects, vote for him.

Mr. Brown says dramatically, "You citizens of Lowell will be the men behind me as mayor." How well that sounds. Of course the citizens of Lowell are behind every man when they elect him mayor. The real question is, who will dictate the policies of Mr. Brown?

Mr. Brown says, "You know for the past six years whether or not certain departments at city hall are corrupt." I was mayor of Lowell for two years of this time. Do you know Mr. Brown of any corruption that existed during those two years? Do you know where he failed to expose and correct abuses of government during my administration? You are silent in criticism of my public acts. Is it because you find nothing to criticize in my public service? Do you know now of any corruption existing at city hall? You speak of matters that have been exposed, and remedied, without your assistance. What wrongs now exist, and how are you going to correct them?

Mr. Brown talks like a man who believes that it is popular to be "agin the government." Perhaps it is, but should there not be something substantial upon which to base the attack?

Mr. Brown says, "Try and find out things for yourself." No Mr. Brown, the public want you to tell what is wrong. You are going about saying that everything is wrong. Why not tell the public where the sore spots are, and how you are going to correct them?

You say that all police officers are against you. That is not so. The officials of the departments who do the political bidding of the superintendent are not against you. If the officers in the department who are independent of their political action are against you, may it not be because they know you are well, and the fallacy of your pretensions?

The public has listened long enough to your proclamations as to what you are against, and have placed a proper estimate upon your sincerity of purpose to fulfill what you say. Suppose you tell now what you are for in matters affecting public interests. For two years, progress has been made at a small like pace for the abolition of dangerous grade crossings at Plain, Middlesex, Walker and School streets. No activity has been displayed towards the perfection of plans and the beginning of operations. Do you know, Mr. Brown, how important this matter is to the public? It involves the expenditure of

Frederick Howard, aged 42 years, threw his wife out of a second-story window of their house at 9 Hutton street, Wigginville, about 3:30 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Howard is at the Lowell General Hospital, where it is reported she is resting comfortably and in all probability will live, while Howard is occupying a cell at the police station, he having been arrested shortly after he committed the deed. That Howard acted on the impulse

WAGON DAMAGED

ACCIDENT IN CENTRAL STREET THIS AFTERNOON

A runaway was narrowly averted early this afternoon by the presence of mind of one of the employees of the Sawyer Carriage Co. As it was a wagon belonging to the carriage company and was being driven by one of its employees, the accident was not serious. The wagon was damaged and a number of bystanders were given a scare.

The employee in question was driving a democrat wagon, with red running gear, through Central street when about to turn into Market street the rear wheel on the high side of the wagon went rolling away, a flaw in the axle having caused the wheel to part company with the wagon.

The sudden dropping of the rear of the wagon made the horse start to run but the driver was equal to the occasion and soon had the animal under control.

LOWELL FIRM LOST

Connors Bros. Not to Build Suffolk Co. Court House

The controversy over the bids for the addition to the Suffolk county court house between the F. T. Nesbit Co. of New York, whose bid was $252,000, and Connors Bros. of Lowell, whose bid was $20,000 higher, and in spite of which the special commission awarded the contract to the latter firm, was settled today by the board of appeals consisting of Gov. Guild, Chief Justice Knowlton and Mayor Hubbard, which decided in favor of the Nesbit Co.

In a commission report to James R. Dunbar, chairman of the special court house commission, the board of appeals states that it does not find the corporation of F. T. Nesbit Co. so inferior to the Connors Bros. Co. as to justify the award of the contract to the latter firm at an extra cost of $20,000.

HAD PISTOL DUEL

PITTSFIELD, Me., Dec. 2.—Night Watchman Corey had a pistol duel with two or more professional burglars early today after they had entered three stores. More than a dozen shots were fired, but without effect except that one bullet passed through the right shoulder of the officer's coat without injury to him. The officer discovered them in the drug store of H. H. Nutter and they escaped from the rear. He gave chase and the shooting followed, the officer taking a lively part in it. The burglars dropped some of the stolen articles as they ran. They smashed the cash register in the drug store, but obtained only a few cents. From the Estes cigar store they secured $60 worth of cigars and pipes, also some change from Miss Day's millinery store. During the morning six or seven suspects were rounded up in an attempt to capture the burglars, but the officers did not think they had the right ones.

BOARD OF TRADE

Elected 30 New Members at Today's Meeting

The board of trade has gotten a great move on as will be seen by the report of the meeting of the board of directors held this forenoon when 30 new members were admitted, bringing the total membership up to the vicinity of 350.

Formerly the directors met late in the afternoon but today the meeting was called in the forenoon and evidently the change was in the right direction for there was a large attendance. President Smith was in the chair and Sec. McKenna read the report of the last meeting.

The new members elected were: Messrs. Charles H. Lane, George E. Vozelias, Warren E. Mumford, Fred A. Puffer, Harry Ostroff, Luther W. Faulkner, Daniel W. Shanahan, James S. Chalmerson, Frank H. Ward, Eugene T. Shaw, Otis Ryan, Daniel P. McKenna, J. Harry Gamble, P. J. Brady, Walter E. Guvette, Richard M. Closs, Albert W. Stowam, Paul Vigeant, George H. Runnels, Robert W. Van Tassel, Hiram C. Brown, George W. Morrison, Richard S. Donoghue, William E. Badger, C. F. Enright, Arthur D. Prince, G. Thomas Parkhurst, James H. Buckley, Dr. William M. Jones and Charles F. Varum. The membership committee after presenting these names mentioned plans under way to further increase the membership.

The committee on municipal affairs reported on the project to recommend the purchase of the Coburn lot so-called on the western side of the Memorial building. The committee stated that the lot was of more value to the city than to any individual and that the bank which holds the title to it will sell it at a sacrifice. The land is assessed for $25,000, while the buildings are assessed for $3000. While the directorate appears favorably disposed toward the project it was voted to refer the matter to the next general meeting of the board which will be held within a few weeks.

The committee on municipal affairs also reported on the matter of a public comfort station in the center of the city which the public generally as well as the committee believes is badly needed. Similar stations have been established in Boston, Lawrence, Worcester and other cities and the committee looked into their operation on these places while the matter was under consideration. It was voted to refer this matter to the general meeting.

The question of setting aside the White mountain range by the federal government as a public reservation, for the protection of the industries of the Merrimack valley was discussed and Secretary McKenna was instructed to write to the senators from Massachusetts and to Congressman Ames impressing upon them the immense importance of such a step to the many industries along the valley of the Merrimack.

A Monthly Publication

Another important matter discussed at the meeting was the proposition to start a monthly publication on matters pertaining to the board of trade, setting forth the advantages of the city of Lowell and circulate it through the consular services of this and other countries, all large banking and commercial institutions and among the different boards of trade, the idea being to introduce and boost Lowell to the world. Boston, Providence, Portland, Me., and other cities already have such publications and find them of material benefit to the cities represented. It was voted also to refer this matter to the general meeting and the directors appeared to favor the proposition. With an experienced man like Secretary McKenna in charge such a publication undoubtedly could be made a big success. The president and secretary were empowered to arrange a date for the next general meeting and they will probably call it for either December 16 or 17.

MANY GUESTS

February 12 has been the date set for the unveiling or the dedication of the Lincoln monument in this city and it will be up to the mayor of Lowell to make the dedication speech. The unveiling of the Lincoln monument will be quite an affair and great interest has been shown in and out of the city because of the fact that the school children by penny contributions have secured $500 toward the monument. The occasion will afford a splendid opportunity for the mayor of the city to do himself and the city proud by his historic reference and patriotic inspiration. Many out-of-town guests will attend the unveiling or dedication as invitations have already been extended.

COUNT BONI'S SUIT

M. Clemenceau Sets Forth Claims of the Princess

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The suit brought by Count de Castellane against Princess de Sagan, his former wife for the custody of his three children was continuing in this city today. At the first hearing last week counsel for the count declared that the moral atmosphere of the Sagan household was harmful to the children and that therefore they should be placed in the custody of the Marquise de Castellane, the count's mother.

The court room was crowded. M. Clemenceau, in presenting the princess's side of the case today emphasized the fact that the courts of France always had decided that a second marriage did not affect the rights of parents with regard to their children, even in cases where this second marriage was with the alleged accomplice in adultery.

M. Clemenceau then summed up the contentions of the princess as follows: "The count has formally declared that he would withdraw the suit if the princess separated from her husband. The facts that the count had offered to prove were irrelevant and even if they were established they had no bearing upon the education of the children. Furthermore these allegations were denied by the princess. The count was inspired less by solicitude for the welfare of his children than by personal hatred and financial considerations. The princess since her marriage to her present husband has fulfilled in every way her duty toward her children. She had not sought to alienate their affections from their father. On the other hand the count had committed the unpardonable fault of bringing out the present scandal to the detriment of the children; he had used language which 'humiliated' their tutor and in letters to them he had called De Sagan a bandit. M. Clemenceau then denied that De Sagan since his marriage had in any way interfered with the education of the children. Consequently he asked the court taking into consideration the princess's expressed declaration that she never had opposed and would not oppose in the future the exercise of the count's legal rights over the education of the children provided only that he did not attempt to poison their minds, to dismiss the suit.

Continuing M. Clemenceau announced that the princess formally joined with her husband in the allegations against the count numbered from four to twenty, inclusive. These deal with De Sagan's charges that the count in order to prevent the marriage of Madame Gould with the prince caused forged letters and documents, purporting to have been signed by De Sagan, to be sent to Madame Gould. The count claimed that these documents had been left anonymously at his residence during September, 1907. De Sagan, while not directly accusing the count of forgery offered to prove by experts that these documents were forged by the same hand.

M. Clemenceau said that certain affirmations must be met, notably Madame Gould's alleged remark that it would have been better if she had not been divorced, but had lived as she pleased, though married. What Madame Gould actually said, M. Clemenceau declared, was: "I am treated just as if I had a lot of lovers."

Counsel for the princess asked the count for and after when he reached the subject of the reckless fashion in which he had dissipated his wife's fortune, spending at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for 11 years. "So long as this money was forthcoming," M. Clemenceau said, "the count considered his wife upright and honorable."

When Miss Gould was married to De Castellane she had a yearly income of $700,000. During her married life $10,000,000 had been spent. When she got her divorce from the count there existed debts amounting to $2,400,000 in addition to the sum of $95,000 that had been given to the Marquise de Castellane by De Castellane.

"This is the man," cried M. Clemenceau, "who wants his children educated like a De Castellane; a man without a profession, who married for money and then devoted himself to betraying his wife with his wife's female friends. Contrast him with the princess, here is a true man, who has devoted his energies to improving his railroads in order to get the products to the markets of the world."

M. Clemenceau revealed the exact terms of the settlement his client offered to make at the time of her divorce. These the count refused to accept. The count refused to pay $1,000,000 in cash and an income of $300,000 a year, this income to be increased when the estate of his client was out of the hands of the trustees, Madame Gould to take over all the debts then pending. M. Clemenceau then asked the count for reproaching De Sagan with having two mistresses.

"The count," he said, "had more than two when he married Miss Gould."

Reverting to the divorce proceedings, M. Clemenceau charged that the words of the decree obtained by the countess, that "the husband had entertained relations with women of easy morals" did not constitute the worst charge against the count.

As proof that the suit was not brought because of the count's solicitude for his children and that the Marquise de Castellane did not desire their custody, M. Clemenceau called attention to the fact that the Marquise had not come forward as a party to the action.

NO HALF FARE

FOR PUPILS OF THE EVENING SCHOOLS

The question of half-fare for evening school pupils is one of considerable interest to Lowell at the present time. That day school pupils should ride on half fare or half-rate tickets was made law some time ago and last year the law was amended to include pupils of the evening schools. These pupils have been insisting on what they believe to be their rights and the question was discussed at a recent meeting of the school board when Supt. Whitcomb was instructed to communicate with President P. F. Sullivan of the Boston & Northern Street Railway company relative to the matter. The following is Mr. Sullivan's reply to Supt. Whitcomb's letter and is dated Nov. 27:

A. K. Whitcomb, Supt. of Schools, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

Yours of the 25th received and contents duly noted. The Boston & Northern Street Railway Company refuses to allow tickets to pupils of evening schools as we have been advised and believe that chapter 556 of the laws of 1903 is unconstitutional and void insofar as it purports to require street railway companies to transport pupils of evening schools at half rates, so called.

Yours respectfully,
P. F. Sullivan, President.

DUAL EMPIRE

IS CELEBRATING DIAMOND JUBILEE OF EMPEROR

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—The dual empire is today celebrating the diamond jubilee of the accession of Francis Joseph to the throne, his majesty being emperor of Austria and king of Hungary. Dec. 2, 1848, on the abdication of his uncle, Ferdinand I.

Masses and special Te Deum services in the cathedral and the churches of Vienna marked the beginning of the program of festivities. His majesty was present at the service in the Hofburg chapel. As he drove through the streets in an open carriage attended by the members of the imperial household he was greeted everywhere with cheers from the people who crowded the streets.

At the conclusion of this service his majesty received the felicitations of the members of his family and also from deputations, from civil bodies, the military establishments, etc.

EMPEROR'S ANNIVERSARY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Impressive services were held today in commemorative of the 60th anniversary of Emperor Francis Joseph's accession to the throne as ruler of Austria-Hungary. President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks, members of the United States supreme court, members of the cabinet, members of congress and the members of the diplomatic corps were present. Cardinal Gibbons assisted in the high mass conducted.

but being muffled he was uncertain as to their origin. The third, however, was less guarded and was followed by a crash and rattle as the vault door fell away and interior glass fittings were broken. Tarbell reached his door after aiming himself with a revolver only to find it barred from the outside. He succeeded in breaking it open after some time and immediately went to the door of the bank. He reached there just as the robbers were starting off in their automobile and after shopping an alarm he fired several shots at the fleeing party. The shots were fired at a distance of some twenty feet but whether any of them took effect in the person of the robbers is unknown as no traces of blood were found in the vicinity. Tarbell followed the automobile for some distance along the main street but was soon distanced, although he went far enough to be reasonably certain that the machine took the road to Groton.

The return of Tarbell to the scene found a large crowd gathered about the bank including a few police of the town. None of these is on duty at night and at two o'clock in the morning the time of the break the streets are entirely deserted. The cashier, Henry Tarbell, who was immediately notified of the break, came to the bank to ascertain the amount taken. He found a considerable amount of bills and silver scattered about the vault, the evidence of the hurry with which the burglars secured their booty. The large quantity of gold stored in one of the inner recesses of the safe was untouched, save for a single $10 which was missing.

The robbers had considerable time in which to work and that they understood well the manner of safeguarding against interruption was shown by an examination after the burglary. They were practically immune from interference by any possible discoverers in the immediate neighborhood of the bank, as they took the precaution of barring every door leading to the street in the vicinity of the bank. Among those doors was that of Mr. Tarbell, who was the first aroused by the explosions. That the first two explosions were made under muffled conditions which effectually drowned the noise was evident to Mr. Tarbell when he heard the third, loud and distinctly. Apparently the burglars became excited at not being able to break open the vault door with the first two explosions, and in preparing for the third forgot to take the usual precaution. Their exit shortly after showed that they were aware of their mistake.

The Pepperell police today were in communication with the police of every city and town within a considerable radius and expected at any time to Howard is employed as a loomfixer at the United States Hosiery mills and has been working very steadily. His only fault seems to have been his addiction to liquor and that, seven or eight years ago his brain was affected and it was found necessary to send him to the insane asylum at Worcester. Howard and his wife and daughter have been living in Hinton avenue since a short time after the explosion of the powder magazine in 1893 and, according to the neighbors there, has never been any trouble in the house.

During the past week, however, Howard had been acting rather queer and while he had been given to morbid spells since his release from the insane asylum the members of the household were of the opinion that he was finally cured.

He had been drinking heavily of late and on numerous occasions had gone to his home in an intoxicated condition. On Thanksgiving day there was a case of beer in the house and Howard drank of the greater part of that together with some whiskey. He went to work the next day, however, and had been working up to last night.

Upon returning to his home last night he appeared to be in a better frame of mind than he had been during the past few days and after eating a hearty supper sat down to read the paper.

The paper in question was The Sun, and upon looking at the last page and seeing the political cartoon he began to laugh aloud. He then looked at other part of the paper, but continually kept turning to the last page and laughing at the cartoon.

While reading the paper he appeared to be rather hysterical, and at eight o'clock decided to go out for a walk. He went out and within fifteen minutes returned and retired for the night.

Some time during the early part of the morning Howard arose and partially dressing himself started walking around the house and threatened to do bodily harm to both his wife and daughter. They tried to pacify him, but he grew worse and Mrs. Howard and her daughter arose, and dressed. By this time Howard was terribly insane, and grabbing his daughter tore her clothing and grabbing her by the throat started to choke her. After he had let her go in a most unconscious condition she turned on his wife and grabbing her by the throat pushed her through a bedroom window to the roof of the rear piazza and from there the woman rolled to the ground, a distance of about fifteen feet.

What happened after that until Mrs. Howard was found seems to be blank, for Howard did not know what occurred, the daughter had gone in search of a doctor, and Mrs. Howard is unable to tell what she did.

Shortly before four o'clock this morning the occupants of the house in the rear of that occupied by the Howards were awakened by means, and after arising an investigation showed Mrs. Howard on the rear steps of the neighbor's house and she was moaning in a most pitiful manner.

The ambulance and the police were notified, and when the ambulance reached the scene the woman was taken to the Lowell General Hospital. A little later Howard was arrested by Patrolman Charles S. Hill and sent to the police station, where he was locked up. Owing to the fact that the police were certain that Howard did not know there was no charge preferred against him.

Dr. Sweetser and Benner had a long talk with Miss Howard and her father this morning, and in all probability the father will be committed to one of the insane asylums within a few days.

Inquiry at the hospital this noon brought out the information that Mrs. Howard is suffering from a fractured sternum (breastbone). There are no signs of other internal injuries and it is believed that her case is not very serious.

The fact that the window through which Mrs. Howard is said to have been thrown by her husband is not broken has led the neighbors to believe that the woman was not thrown through the window in order to escape, and either fell or jumped from the piazza roof to the ground. The physicians at the Lowell General Hospital are also of the same opinion.

TACTICS CHANGED

Mr. Brown Put Away His "Mallet" Today

Candidate Brown addressed quite a gathering at the Root mills today and the crowd was much disappointed for it expected to hear a characteristic "Brown speech," and didn't hear it. Mr. Brown changed his theme and manner completely, simply making a personal appeal to be elected. He spoke in part as follows:

Gentlemen: I am here today to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the way the workingmen of Lowell supported me in the primaries for the nomination for mayor, and I hope that it will be again my pleasure to thank you for the election as your mayor.

I am not here today to make a political speech. I think you would rather like a change of subject, and as I stand here today the thought comes to my mind that it was here that I used to sell daily papers 15 years ago. I call this to your attention because it is a pleasant recollection.

I have been ambitious throughout my life. It is true that I have not a college education, but should I be refused the mayoralty for that reason, and should any one of you citizens be denied the right to run for mayor because you have not got a college education?

Workmen, I appeal to you here today. I am one of you; unite with me and elect me as your mayor, and you will never have cause to regret it. These corrupt interests that I am opposed to, their paid hirelings, and the newspapers are trying to influence you to vote against me, and why?

I am one of you and I ask you to elect me. All I ask is a trial, and if I don't make good I have only 10 months to serve before you will have a chance to turn me down.

If you want to be influenced by the corrupt interests, well and good, but I believe you citizens of Lowell will not be influenced; you know how our city has been run during the past six years, and I ask you to elect me as your mayor, so that we can have a change for the better.

THE DAVIS TRIAL

PRINT CLOTHS

Princess Has Sued Her Husband

FALL RIVER, Dec. 2.—Brokers representing M. C. D. Borden were today offering 3 7-16 cents for print cloths an advance of one-sixteenth of a cent on the quotation. The offer is for deliveries within the next few weeks, but since the market is well sold through December and January, Mr. Borden's brokers are not able to secure any considerable amount of goods at the price offered. The demand for print cloths has been heavy recently and mills that will have looms released from contracts very soon are not disposed to let them up again at once at the current price.

Princess Has Sued Her Husband

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The Princess de Broglie who was a Mrs. Velt of Chicago, has begun divorce proceedings against her husband on the grounds of desertion. She is singing in Paris restaurants to earn a livelihood for herself and children.

MONETARY COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Secretary Cortelyou and Assistant Secretary Goodie appeared before the national monetary commission today. Mr. Cortelyou was examined concerning suggestions for amendments to correct defects in administrative features of banking laws. The recent financial panic and the effect upon certain banking institutions furnished the basis for most of Mr. Cortelyou's observations to the commission. Comptroller Murray offered suggestions for amendments to the banking laws governing methods of bank examinations.

Default in Mitchell-Harriman Case Withdrawn

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The trial of the suit brought by Mary Bitts of Everett, colored, against the Merchants & Miners Transportation Co., in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $15,000 damages for alleged discrimination by the company in refusing to allow her first class accommodation because of her color, was begun in the United States district court today.

Mrs. Bitts alleges that she purchased a round trip first class ticket to Norfolk from this city, but the company compelled her to eat in the second cabin and refused to permit her to occupy a cabin on the upper deck.

In the case of James E. Mitchell & Co., wool brokers, of Boston, against Joseph Harriman, the suspender manufacturer of this city, which was scheduled to be heard in the civil session of the police court yesterday afternoon The Sun said that the defendant was defaulted. That statement was correct so far as it went, but shortly after the default was entered, James Stuart Murphy, counsel for the defendant, put in an appearance and counsel for the plaintiff made an agreement with Mr. Murphy to have the default withdrawn. The case was then continued for two weeks, the default not being recorded.

Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of postum on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. DR. F. H. SMITH

Takes Exception to Mr. Brown's Charge

RELATIVE TO DELAY IN ATTENDING BEAULIEU

Says Man With Bullet in His Head Should Have Been Sent to Hospital or Another Doctor Promptly Called.

Dr. Foster H. Smith, city physician, takes exception to the statement made by Candidate Brown to the effect that he, the doctor, was responsible for keeping Wilfred Beaulieu three hours at the police station with a bullet in his head. As a matter of fact the man was but two hours at the station, from 4.25 to 6.25, without surgical treatment.

Dr. Smith is not supposed to give all his time to the city's business and when called by the police to attend Beaulieu he was out on professional calls and did not reach his house till 6.10. As soon as he heard of the call he hurried to the police station.

Mr. Brown says the police department was not to blame for the delay and Dr. Smith says he was not to blame. He says in every such case one of two things should be done: Either another doctor should be called or the man should be promptly sent to a hospital.

The charge made by Brown shows how erratic or unscrupulous he is and how careful to shield the police department.

Dr. Smith is the son of the late Hermon J. Smith and a man whose main ambition is to rise to the high professional standing of his father, who died but a short time ago. He does not feel that he can allow such unjust statements as that made by Mr. Brown to go unchallenged.

The Mechanics Savings Bank, 202 Merrimack st., will pay interest at the rate of four per cent. on money deposited on or before Saturday, Dec. 6th.

H. L. SATTERLEE

Morgan's Son-in-Law for Office

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—It is reported in official circles in Washington that Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of J. Pierpont Morgan, is likely to become assistant secretary of the navy under Truman H. Newberry. Mr. Satterlee is a New York lawyer and was one of the organizers of the naval militia under Governor Morgan of New York. During the war with Spain he was a volunteer lieutenant and served in the naval intelligence bureau in Washington.

FELL 40 DEGREES

Thermometer Dropped to 30 in 24 Hours

Yesterday noon the thermometers in the vicinity of Merrimack square registered 70 degrees, and overcoats and outer garments generally were abandoned. This noon the same thermometers registered 30 degrees, a drop of 40 degrees in 24 hours.

It looked like a shower for a time yesterday, while today it looked like a snowstorm.

In between came a terrific wind storm last night that rattled blinds, windows and doors, while on the smooth paved thoroughfares down town, particularly Central street, huge clouds and whirlwinds of dust rushed into the nostrils and down the throats of all who had the misfortune to be down town.

And of such is our delightful New England climate.

THE THAW FIGHT

Resumed in the U. S. Circuit Court

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—The fight to have Harry Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, taken from Matteawan asylum in New York state to Pittsburgh for the purpose of appearing in bankruptcy proceedings there, was resumed in the United States circuit court of appeals here today, when former Gov. Stone of Pittsburgh, counsel for Roger O'Mara, trustee of Thaw's estate in bankruptcy, continued his argument which was begun yesterday.

Mr. Stone, who filed the petition, taking the case to the appellate court, wants that tribunal to review the decision of Judge Young of the United States court for the western district of Pennsylvania, who dismissed a writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum granted during Judge Archibald of the United States court for the middle district of Pennsylvania. The bankruptcy proceedings were originally brought in Judge Young's jurisdiction.

Counsel for New York state, who is opposing the efforts to have Thaw taken to Pittsburgh, declares that the desire to have Thaw taken to Pittsburgh is only a sham and that the Thaw interests have some other objects in view. This is resented by Mr. Stone.

EMPEROR'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

VIENNA, Dec. 2.—In honor of Emperor Francis Joseph's diamond jubilee, the city was illuminated last night on a scale of unprecedented brilliancy, the effect was enhanced by powerful searchlights and bengal lights playing from the high towers.

The pressure of the enormous crowds in the streets caused several serious accidents. Four persons were killed, forty seriously injured, and more than a hundred others slightly hurt.

It is estimated that there were 1,500,000 people in the streets.

YOUNG WOMAN

WAS SENT TO THE POLICE STATION

Mary Brennan, a young woman, was taken from the Y. W. C. A. in John street yesterday afternoon, her condition being such that it was deemed the best place for her to be. She was taken to the police station and placed in the custody of the police.

Brennan and Patricia Ryan were called to the building and they sent her to the police station. Her case was not acted in court this morning owing to the fact that it was deemed advisable to look into her mental condition.

WAS FINED $25
BECAUSE SHE TRIED TO SHOOT MAN

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The spectacle of a woman brandishing a huge revolver and running rapidly after a fleeing man threw strollers along Tremont street, near Pleasant, into a panic Monday evening.

"I'm going to kill that man. He promised to take me to the theatre and then took another woman," was the reply she gave to Officer McCrady when taken into custody and asked for an explanation of her conduct.

Even after the arrest the man showed no sign of lessening his speed. In court yesterday the young woman gave the name of Mary Durbin of Porter street. She pleaded guilty to the offence of carrying a loaded revolver without a license and was fined $25.

"BLACK HAND" WORKFour Men Charged With Attempting to Extort Money

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—The police of the North End are engaged in solving what they believe to be a "black hand" mystery.

Yesterday morning Patrolmen Sweetland and Dineen of division 1 arrested four Italians, who, it is alleged, are implicated in an attempt to extort money from Leonard Squillacioti, a prominent Italian, connected with a bank at 320 and 322 North street.

The prisoners, who gave their names as Tomasso Ferrari, aged 42; Alfred Migliore, 24; Pietro Timarilli, 38, and Carmine D'Antoni, 34, all live at 4 Lathrop place, and all but Ferrari were arrested there shortly before 10 yesterday.

Ferrari was looked up when he entered the liquor store of Squillacioti and attempted to sell a $500 check, which had been left as a decoy in the hallway of the house in Lathrop place about 11 Monday night, for $150.

Ferrari was held in conversation by Alphonse, a son of the older Squillacioti until Patrolmen Dineen happened along, and then he was turned over to the officer. At the police station Ferrari is said to have talked freely and implicated the others who were found in the Lathrop place house. They were held on the charge of attempted extortion, and up to a late hour last night had not succeeded in obtaining bail. All four were arraigned in the municipal court this morning.

According to the police there have been several cases of alleged "black hand" threats during the past year. Leonard Squillacioti has received five different threatening letters during the past week. In all the letters a request for money was made under penalty of death if he refused to comply.

The last of the letters was received Friday and in it the banker was ordered to contribute $500, which was considered a modest request, in view of the other demands which called for $1000. The Squillaciotis consulted with Capt. Knibb of the Hanover street police station. The letter stated that the $500 must be left behind the front door of 2 Lathrop place before midnight of November 30, and furthermore that the money must be left by the older Squillacioti personally. After consulting with the police, the threatened man drew a check for $500 on the U. S. trust company yesterday and after notifying the bank officials not to honor the note, he waited until shortly after 11 Monday night, when he left the letter at the place indicated.

Nothing more was heard of the matter until shortly before 10 yesterday morning, when Ferrari appeared at the liquor store and stated that he had in his possession one of Mr. Squillacioti's checks for $500 and would sell it for $150. It was then that he was arrested, Ferrari, the police say, had the check in his hand, notwithstanding that he denied the fact to young Squillacioti, and when Migliore was arrested the envelope was found upon him.

SAVES CHILDRENMalden North Slams Door on Mad Dog

MALDEN, Dec. 2.—Going suddenly mad last yesterday afternoon, a valuable fox terrier drove Mrs. Charles Moore and her three children into the street, and was captured and shot by officers Costello and Ferguson only after a hard battle.

Mrs. Moore was sitting in the living room, when she looked up from her work and noticed that the animal was acting strangely. Her three children were rolling about the floor, playing with the dog and vastly amused by his odd antics.

When she started toward the animal he suddenly sprang at her, but she jumped quickly, and his bound carried him through an open door into the kitchen. Quickly closing this door, she hastily caught up the children and hurried them into the street, later calling up the police by telephone.

Officer Costello stunned the dog with a chair and he was taken into the cellar and shot.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

That most riotous of laughing successes, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," is coming to the Opera House tonight with an excellent company including Miss Lavina Shannon and other artists of note engaged in its interpretation. The famous farce has been stamped with the emphatic approval of London and with the most positive every other city in which it has been played. The consensus of expert opinion has it that, considered from every standpoint, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is by far the greatest farce comedy produced in the last twenty years. Certainly it is that as a laugh producer there is no play now being presented that can even approach this seemingly simple recital of the domestic troubles of the Temple family.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" introduces to the public the ever interesting question as to whether a faithful husband is ever justified in telling a whole lie—when his charming but obstinate wife refuses to credit the truth. Jack Temple has been away from home all night because when he was in a taxi cab the machinery stopped working, which fact resulted in the detention of Mr. Temple in the little car of the Peris when he was in the street. The next morning when the machinery was repaired, the wheel revolved, and Mr. Temple was allowed to once again set foot on terra firma. Mrs. Temple rejects this explanation—so Mr. Temple invents an imaginary friend, declaring that he stopped with him the evening previous, and that this one little innocent white lie arises as the most amazing farcical complications.

BOSTON OPERA SINGERS

The Boston Opera Singers company will open an engagement of three nights commencing Thursday, Dec. 10, at the Opera House. The company numbers sixty and includes artists well known in this country. The seats will open at the box office on Saturday, Dec. 5, for the entire engagement. Persons residing out of town may secure their seats by writing the manager of the theatre.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

It's hard to believe that sea lions are capable of being taught some mighty difficult tricks, but inasmuch as seeing is believing—and they can be seen twice a day at Hathaway's theatre—it must be admitted that they lead themselves rather better to feats of skill on the stage than do some of the more highly developed animals.

Capt. Winston's five sea lions, juggle balls, hats, batons, etc., with great skill. "At the Threshold," a powerful one-act playlet, is presented by Walter Law and Company, in a convincing manner. The story told is most dramatic, and associated with Mr. Law are J. Chester Lewis and Miss Yvonne Marvin. Other acts on this bill are: Sadie Jansell, imitator of stage personages; Harry & Wolford, singers and parodists; Leeds & Lamar, Australian sketch artists; Carberry brothers, dancers; Charles Herrera, in aerial bamboo feats, and the Hathascope.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, with a special souvenir matinee Saturday afternoon.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Talk about funny moving pictures: those at the academy this week appear to be the best laugh provokers ever witnessed in Lowell, judging from the roars of laughter that greet them at each performance. The vaudeville bill is a show in itself. Today is the closing day for the present bill, for tomorrow sees a complete change of pictures and vaudeville acts, the academy being the only theatre in Lowell to make a complete mid-week change.

RESTRICT THE SALE OF FIREARMS.

We notice that Wilfred Beaulieu, who shot his wife the other day, bought his revolver in a pawn shop shortly before he committed the crime. This is another proof of the necessity of greater vigilance in the sale of firearms. In such cases we believe the name and address of the purchaser should be taken and should be open for daily inspection by the police. Unless something be done to restrict the sale of firearms these crimes will continue and criminal characters of every description will continue to carry dangerous weapons. If the law required every purchaser of a revolver or a shotgun to show a permit from the police department there would be fewer of these crimes by irate husbands. Such a regulation would lessen the sale of firearms, but who will say the community would not be benefited?

WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE?

In the accident on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by which one man was killed and fifty injured, several of these fatally, it is plain that there was some very bad blundering on the part of the railroad employees. The accident will be investigated no doubt with the usual result. There will not be sufficient evidence to place the blame positively upon anybody. Many such accidents occur as the result of a combination of circumstances to which several people indirectly contribute. Thus the responsibility is so scattered that nobody is held amenable to punishment for the accident. Hence one accident follows another, and nobody is punished, the only penalty being that the company may have to pay damages to those who were injured, but no amount of damages will compensate for the loss of life or permanent disability to people whose life prospects are blasted and for whom life-long suffering and sorrow substituted for health and happiness.

MR. BRYAN AS A CANDIDATE SHOULD SUBSIDE.

Already there is talk in some quarters of the possibility of Mr. Bryan again being a candidate for the presidency in 1912. It is feared that any rival leader coming to the front in the meantime would adopt a reactionary policy and depart from the radical stand taken by the democratic party under Mr. Bryan. That, of course, is a possibility, but it is not at all probable. In any case we consider it the duty of Mr. Bryan to renounce all intention of being again a candidate. He can continue to fight for reform as he has done in the past, but he cannot continue to make himself the instrument of defeating such reform by his candidacy for the presidency.

If Mr. Bryan wants to maintain his reputation for honesty and unselfishness in advocating political reforms he will declare most emphatically that under no condition will he be a candidate in 1912.

After his second defeat he stated for a time that he would not be again a candidate, but as the time for the convention approached he gradually yielded to the appeals of his friends to become a candidate, and even entered upon an elaborate campaign for the nomination. Had he retired at that time and left the field clear for the nomination of Governor Johnson of Minnesota, we might have a different story to tell today.

The democratic victory scored in several different states that gave their electoral vote to Mr. Taft, indicates that it was Bryan the people feared as a candidate. Had Johnson been the standard bearer in all probability he would have carried these states against republican opposition.

That unusual anomaly should be enough to convince Mr. Bryan that he can never be successful as a candidate for the presidency. Two defeats are sufficient to prove that, and the third defeat should place it beyond any question whatsoever. To talk of running a fourth time is simply sacrificing the interests of the democratic party and the chances of democratic reform to the interests and, may we say, the ambitions of an individual.

Mr. Bryan does not seem to understand the causes of his recent defeat, and he has called for explanations from democrats throughout the country. It is a peculiarity of some candidates to find the cause for their defeat entirely outside themselves. They blame certain interests, certain organizations or certain political workers, while at the same time the real cause lay with themselves.

Mr. Bryan advocated government ownership of railroads and he advocated radical measures in regard to trusts, while in his first campaign he advocated the free coinage of silver. The last named policy led the moneyed interests of the country and even a large portion of the business men to oppose him as a man of dangerous policies. Not that his advocacy was entirely wrong at the time but as after developments proved it was ineffectual.

When he declared for the private ownership of railroads he still further alarmed these same interests. It was thus some of his own utterances and principally that relative to the ownership of railroads with his opposition to the trusts that led to his recent defeat.

The country had passed through two years of depression and the business interests held out the threat that Bryan's election would bring four years more of depression. The people were afraid to risk his election and in order to avoid the possibility of prolonging the hard times many democrats voted for Taft. That explains Mr. Bryan's defeat, and there is no need of any long inquiry into the causes. Mr. Bryan should know them very well if he could view them from an unbiased standpoint.

The inexorable logic of the election is there, and the logic of three successive defeats should convince him and his party that he is not wanted and that unless something unprecedented should happen to strengthen him politically, his defeats are proof sufficient that he can never be elected president of this republic.

SEEN AND HEARD

Snow shovels outside the hardware stores are gentle reminders that winter is near at hand.

At this time last year the lovers of the steel blades were enjoying ice skating.

Now is the time when people begin to think of Christmas and the presents which they will have to purchase. Several young men around town have bet a small roll of money on the city election, hoping to win, and have double the amount they have at the present time. Those who have a little to bet had better keep enough to buy those presents for when two bet one is sure to lose and the writer has heard of both losses.

The members of the "sons of rest," whose principal business is watching the men working in the sewer in Merrimack street and sunning themselves on the street corners, are around telling the candidates for office what they did for the cause before the nomination and what they are going to do between now and election day.

"I guess I'll take a month off," said the office boy yesterday as he proceeded to tear the November sheet from the calendar.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PUTTING OFF CONSTRUCTION WORK

Manufacturers' Record: The disposition to put off until activity has returned construction work which should be done during times of depression causes many people to lose a very considerable proportion of the cost of their buildings by reason of the higher cost of construction. The time to build, whether it be a house or a factory, is during periods of low prices of materials and labor in order to get the benefit of these conditions, and be ready to take advantage in factory output of the higher market for finished goods which comes with every time of business prosperity. This time of business cannot stop growing. With its vast agricultural potentialities, with its population increasing at the rate of about 1,000,000 a year, with machinery and clothes and railroads wearing out and needing to be replaced, we shall soon see an increasing demand for all building materials.

GERMAN PLANS

Montreal Gazette: German writers, since Lord Roberts' speech, have taken to discussing various plans for invading England. They have been replying to this sort of thing for English experts to explain the effect on a transport with 1500 men aboard of being hit with a 12-inch shell from the gun of a capital ship.

David Warfield during his recent visit to California talked to a club in Los Angeles about plays and acting. Touching on plays drawn from the classic poets, he declared that their ideals could not be realized on the stage. "There is no ethereal actor," touching on the public taste of the hour, he averred that it craved characters in the theatre that "had the same kind of tears and the same kind of laughter as you and I have."

STUART MURPHY

Spoke on "Municipal Problems" Last Night

At the First Presbyterian church last evening, James Stuart Murphy gave an interesting talk on "Municipal Problems" before a large audience.

In the first place, the city charter is hopelessly out of date. The charter of a city is practically the same, or should be the same, as the charter of a corporation. For this city is a large corporation. It is pretty generally agreed that Lowell's charter has outlived its usefulness. Occasionally corporations change their charters, but, as a rule, municipalities change theirs more frequently, to meet the change in municipal situations and problems. Lowell hasn't changed hers as yet. There is the Des Moines, Iowa, idea, which is simplified somewhat in the Haverhill charter. Then, too, there is the method of changing the charter by the abolition of the common council. I favor such abolition, but I believe the time is hardly ripe for it. The present method of expenditure is certainly not the best. I favor a board of public works, composed of men of integrity and known business ability, who shall have the expenditures of all sums of money.

Relative to the police board Mr. Murphy declared for the separation of the police and licensing board.

In conclusion he said: I am loath to believe the charges that have been made that many of the men in our departments at city hall are thieves and grafters. I don't believe that. I believe they use antiquated methods, some of them, in the running of their departments and that, as a result, there are small leaks. All of these together make an unnecessary expenditure every year. It isn't a question of the office holders there having their hands out; it's the leaks. There is much red tape in the board of health. So much of it is there that the board is a failure. Did you ever try to have the board investigate anything? If you have, then you know how much anybody there ever found out about it.

In conclusion Mr. Murphy praised the street department, saying that the city was getting more out of that department than it had ever got before.

CAPT. ROONEY

RE-ELECTED HEAD OF HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Captain James Rooney of this year's High school football team has been chosen to captain the team during the season of 1909.

The members of the High school eleven met yesterday in the school and chose their captain for the year. It was a foregone conclusion that Rooney would be re-elected as it was greatly through his efforts that the football team made such a fine showing this year.

With Rooney at the head of the team and a number of the year's players in the lineup the team to represent the school next year will undoubtedly be much faster than the '08 team.

$1,000,000 ESTATE

Malden Woman Sails to England to Fight for it

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—To fight for a million dollar estate in England, Mrs. William J. Millard of 238 Ferry street, Malden, sailed yesterday on the Ivernia for Liverpool. The courts have already awarded Mrs. Millard $50,000 of the property of J. R. Smith of Blackburn, London, who died a month ago. She claims to be the sole heir, and will contest for the entire amount. Mr. Millard, who accompanied his wife, was employed in a grocery store at Central square, Malden.

Another second cabin passenger was Alexander Thomas, father of Miss Bessie Thomas, who several days ago became the bride of First Officer A. J. Amos of the British steamship Kaula. Mr. Thomas accompanied his daughter to this country from England, arriving last Friday on the Ivernia. The bride will remain with her husband in New York while the Kaula is loading cargo for China and Japan and then go to the home of her parents in Monmouthshire. The Kaula and Officer Amos may not return to England for a number of years. The wedding, which took place in St. Mary's church, East Boston, was the sequel of an attachment begun in schooldays.

BROWN SPEAKS

In Ward Two and Middlesex Village

Candidate Brown addressed meetings at the polling booth at the corner of Cross and Willie streets and at the Middlesex Independent club last evening. At the former place a large gathering including many noisy youngsters was in attendance. Mr. Brown's remarks to a great extent were in repetition of what he has previously set forth on many occasions. Occasionally he sprang a new one. For instance he said:

"I don't think we need any liquor, squad if we allow our country cousins to come in here and detect violations. Constables of towns have come here and found violations. Why hasn't our own liquor squad done this?"

"I don't think you need a liquor squad at all. If our country cousins will come in here and do what these men are supposed to do."

"Another thing I want to put before you, and it is this: Why are the heads of all of the departments against me? Why is the president of the water board, who for the past six years was against Casey, with that candidate now? Is he afraid of an investigation of his office?"

At the Middlesex club Mr. Brown stated that he would make a clean sweep of the police department. "A suicide occurred at the police station recently," said Mr. Brown, "and I think with some precaution such a thing could have been prevented."

DIED SUDDENLY

AN EX-POLICEMAN STRANGLED WHILE EATING

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—Former Police Sergeant Philip E. Clarke was choked to death at his home, 335 East Eighth street, South Boston, while eating supper last night, by a piece of meat, which lodged in his throat.

Dr. Robert Daly and two policemen, who were summoned, succeeded in dislodging the meat, but were unable to resuscitate him.

Former Sergeant Clarke was 67 years old, and at the time of his retirement from the force was attached to the Roxbury Crossing station.

BROWN CHALLENGED HOSPITAL STAFF

To Meet Casey in Debate Tomorrow Evening

Met With Trustees of the Lowell General Hospital

Ex-Mayor Casey Will Allow His Opponent to Speak First and Will Then Reply to Him — Mr. Casey Addressed Two Big Meetings Last Night

And now comes Mr. Casey with a challenge to his opponent, Mr. Brown, to discuss the issues with him on the same platform. Mr. Casey gives his opponent until tomorrow morning to accept or decline the challenge.

It is a 10 to 1 shot that Mr. Brown will not accept, but if he should the debate will take place tomorrow evening and will be the biggest political attraction offered in Lowell in many years.

Mr. Casey addressed meetings at Centralville Odd Fellows hall and at the Middlesex Village Independent club last night.

He went first to Centralville where a crowd that extended out to the street awaited him. He was cheered lustily as he forged his way to the platform.

Aldermanic Candidate Jeremiah Connors accompanied him to the platform. When the cheering had subsided Ex-Mayor Casey spoke as follows:

"Mr. Brown is going about with a real live imagination, endeavoring to impress the citizens with the belief that he is the most injured candidate that ever appeared before the public. Yesterday he stated he could get $50,000, but he wouldn't take it. Today he says that $25,000 is being pooled to defeat him."

"What a beautiful imagination my opponent has, and what will he say next! Will Mr. Brown, for the remainder of the campaign, please state facts, have not the public heard enough of your inconsistent and irrelevant statements? Why do you not present some reasons, if you feel that you can, why you should be mayor, besides indefinite statements that carry with them no meaning?"

"You stated today, 'It is spread about the city that I am the candidate of Morant.' Are you quite sure that you are not? If you are not, why are all the officials who annually do the political bidding of the superintendent of police so active to secure your election?"

"I stated that if elected mayor I would prefer charges, and after substantiating those charges, bring about the removal of the present superintendent of police. Will you say that if you are elected mayor, will you bring about the removal of the superintendent of police?"

"You say that you will not enter into controversy with your opponent. Why is that? Don't you feel that the public expects you to show wherein you are fit and wherein your opponent is not?"

The regular meeting of the St. John's ladies' Auxiliary was held last night in its hall, and the regular routine of business was transacted. The two committees on candidates presented their list of officers to be voted on at the next regular meeting of the society.

After the meeting the society entertained as its guests the officers of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, the members of the St. John's T. A. society, a well as other friends of the members.

A pleasing musical and literary entertainment was then given. During the course of the entertainment, recording Secretary Miss Rose McTeague presented to the president, Miss Belle Valentine, a handsome ring as a token of the esteem in which she was held by the members and for the appreciation of her hard work while in the office of president.

Miss Valentine, though completely taken by surprise, found a few words to thank her sister members.

After the entertainment whist and a general social were enjoyed and refreshments served.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Thomas McTeague, chairman, assisted by Misses Alice Leahy, Mary Cox, Esther Pope and Blanche Kelly.

unit to hold this office. The public wants facts, however, Mr. Brown, not vague, indefinite or sensational references.

"Remember, Mr. Brown, you are seeking election to the highest office in the city. The public wants you to present a statement of your qualifications to hold this office. Something more substantial is required than going about saying everybody and everything is corrupt in the city, and that you alone stand pure and undefiled."

Challenges Brown

"I had not expected that you would so soon descend to personalities. You say, 'This city's tongue representative can memorize and deliver what he is told.'"

"Now Mr. Brown, in order that you may have an opportunity to show how deficient I am in this respect, and how others are obliged to prepare what I say to the public, I would invite you to meet me upon the public platform Thursday night at any time or place you may designate, and there discuss before the public the issues of this campaign."

"You may speak first, and I will reply, so that you certainly cannot then say that anybody has prepared my reply to you. You will have the advantage of coming to the meeting place already prepared. Will you accept? Kindly inform the public through the columns of the press."

"You say 'Before next Tuesday night I will give you some facts. Not only that, but I will bring these facts to the attention of higher authorities, the city, to the grand jury.' Dear Mr. Brown, if you have anything to say about anybody, why in the name of goodness don't you come out, and say it? Don't continue talking about what you are going to do, and threatening everybody. To use a common expression, 'Make good.'"

"Did I not give the citizens of Lowell a faithful and progressive administration of public affairs? Did I not save the city thousands of dollars on lighting, contracts, and on reorganizing departments? Did I not display courage and ability in the office in dealing with matters affecting public interests?"

Mr. Casey concluded amid great applause and then departed for the Middlesex Village Independent club at which he spoke along the same lines. He was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Casey will speak this evening at the Lyon street school at 8 and High street engine house at 8.45 concluding at the Zion Cricket club.

In behalf of the members of the society presented to the president, Miss Belle Valentine, a handsome ring as a token of the esteem in which she was held by the members and for the appreciation of her hard work while in the office of president.

Miss Valentine, though completely taken by surprise, found a few words to thank her sister members.

The regular quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital was held yesterday afternoon, President Jacob Rogers in the chair. By request, the hospital staff met with the trustees to hear the report of the committee in charge of the tuberculosis camp during the past season. This committee consists of Dr. T. G. Cannon, chairman, Dr. W. G. Eaton, Dr. H. Lambert and Dr. Geo. L. Van Deuren, secretary.

The committee reported that the camp was opened May 14th, and closed October 14th. The whole number of patients admitted was 39; average number in the camp 24. Total number of days treatment 3516.

For purposes of study the patients were divided into 5 groups—those remaining less than 30 days, from 30 to 60 days, from 60 to 90 days, from 90 to 120 days, and from 120 to 150 days.

It is well known that at the present time there is no positive specific used in the treatment of tuberculosis, the chief object being to improve the general condition of the patient in every way possible.

Therefore, it may be accepted as a general rule that when the patients are gaining in weight they are making progress toward recovery. There are occasional exceptions to this rule, but nevertheless the rule is a good guide.

The report of the committee showed that of the 6 patients who were in camp less than 30 days only one gained in weight; of the 7 in camp from 30 to 60 days, two gained weight; of the 5 in camp from 60 to 90 days, one gained weight; of the 6 in camp from 90 to 120 days, all gained weight; of the 16 in camp from 120 to 150 days, 13 gained in weight, no change in 2. Some of the more marked cases showed gains in weight from 10 to over 20 pounds each.

Take the 15 cases that were in camp the longest, and as just stated, it is shown that 13 gained in weight, while two showed no change.

It must be true that any treatment which gave us a result like this must be of the highest value. It also shows that there must be some very marked reasons why the two cases did not gain while the 13 showed heavy gains under the same treatment and for the same length of time. Therefore, it is safe to conclude that without this treatment these two cases would have been in a most deplorable condition by the end of the season.

Taking all the cases, those who remained in the camp even only a few days as well as those who remained all the season, and the report shows that 25 of the 39 gained in weight, 3 showed no change, and 5 actually lost weight. These five cases left the camp voluntarily, or were told by the committee that it would hardly be wise for them to remain longer. It has certainly been proved that the great majority of the cases are materially benefited by a season's sojourn at the camp, and one is equally certain in arriving at the conclusion that the other cases would have been in vastly worse condition without this out-door life.

In concluding this report the committee said:

"Eight patients were in camp during 1907 and one both in 1906 and 1907. These patients followed the open air treatment during the winter, so far as their home surroundings would permit, and the majority of them were in better condition on admission to camp this year than last."

"The results accomplished this season compare very favorably with those of other camps and sanatoria, and while a period of five months is too short to accomplish many permanent cures, the educational value of such a camp, not alone to the patients themselves, but to their friends and the community at large, is impossible to estimate."

Furniture Mover

A careful study of the cases serves to emphasize more fully the necessity for the early recognition of the first indications of disease, for while tuberculosis can be cured in its incipient stages it becomes more and more difficult to arrest as it progresses.

"We would appeal to the medical profession of Lowell and vicinity to use every effort possible to induce their incipient cases of tuberculosis to take advantage of the opportunity which Mr. Ayer's generosity has made possible."

"We feel that this camp is capable of accomplishing even more in the future than it has in the past. It is a part of the great educational movement that is insisting on better sanitation for schools, factories and homes. Tuberculosis can be cured, but prevention is easier than cure, and the patients going out from this camp are doing much to teach their friends and neighbors how to escape the great white plague."

The reading of the report was followed with a very interesting discussion by the members of the hospital and many questions were asked by the trustees. In order that the subject might be as thoroughly understood as possible the physician in charge of the camp, and gave repeated illustrations of the value of such a camp to Lowell and its vicinity. As a result of the object lessons at the camp people were becoming more and more convinced of the value of fresh air at night as well as during the day. Living and sleeping rooms were being better ventilated, the old horrors of night air were being dispelled, and the value of surrounding home life was being better understood and more completely carried out. The physicians spoke in the strongest terms possible of the great necessity of recognizing tuberculosis in its early stages. As the committee said, "Tuberculosis can be cured" only if it must be recognized in its early stages before extensive damage was done to the lung tissue. A strong appeal was made that more work be done in educating the public to the necessity of giving better attention to throat and lung trouble, especially when there was a family history of weak lungs, or when the history of weak lungs was associated with loss of flesh or general weakness of the whole system.

There was a very large attendance of the trustees and members of the hospital staff, and nearly everyone took occasion to express their great appreciation of what Mr. Frederick Fanning Ayer was doing for the hospital, for the community, and especially for those afflicted with some form of tuberculosis.

O'Hearn's advocacy of it, was unanimously adopted.

An ordinance providing for the adoption of a uniform system of accounting was read and referred to the committee on ordinances and legislation, which committee met and gave the new system its approval.

The order for $200 for the purchase of apparatus for the fire department came back to the board from the common council, recommended to the fire department committee. On motion of Alderman Cheney, concurrent action was taken.

The auditor's assessment for sidewalks in a number of streets was confirmed.

ALDERMAN BAILEY
Whose Vote Secured Taylor's Election

Supt. Southworth Advocates Adoption of Resolution on Merrimack and Concord River Delta

The board of aldermen last night confirmed Mayor Farnham's appointment of Dr. Charles W. Taylor to the board of health, all of which means that Thomas J. Bean, after Dr. Taylor has qualified, is no longer a member of the board of health.

It was stated in The Sun yesterday that Dr. Taylor had been appointed by the mayor, but the opinion of the wise ones at city hall was that he would not be confirmed. They reckoned without their host, however, Alderman Bailey, for it was his vote on which the question has been hinging, and he voted for Dr. Taylor.

The board was called to order at 8.45 o'clock and every alderman, big and little, was in his seat.

The following jurors were drawn by Alderman Butterworth:

George B. Meigs, 52 Methuen street, clerk.

Frank E. Butler, 400 Westford street, pattern-maker.

Frederick A. Spear, 576 Westford street, general agent.

Frank S. Whittell, 50 Wentworth avenue, plumber.

Patrick Kilbride, 14 Stanley street, grocer.

Joseph Perron, 47 Moody street, barber.

The resolution for modifying the southerly boundary of the channel and of the bed of the Merrimack river was read. F. E. Dunbar and Agent Southworth of the Massachusetts mills spoke in advocacy of the resolution as did Alderman O'Hearn, who said he had made a careful study of the project. He said the city would derive a benefit by the change, that it would give the city more taxable land. It is the purpose of the Massachusetts mills to erect, at some time, additional buildings.

The resolution, after Alderman

COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—John Alan White, 20 years old, of Watton, N. Y., a student of the Yale graduate school, committed suicide last night by jumping from the top of West Rock to the ground below, a distance of 100 feet. The body was found by White's roommate, Henry L. Agard.

It is thought that White's mind was temporarily deranged from overwork and worry over the illness of his brother and sister with typhoid fever.

FUNERALS

WHITE—Mrs. Martha White, widow of the late Joseph White, of Billerica, who died at West Concord, N. H., recently, was born in Billerica Aug. 10, 1811. Consequently she was in the 98th year of her age. She was the daughter of Asa and Nancy (Wyman) Holden and had two sisters and five brothers. In early years she attended the common schools and academy of the town. In 1823 she united with the First Baptist church, of which she remained a faithful and consistent member until death. In 1838 she was married to Joseph White of Bedford. They made their home in East Billerica until his death in 1872. After his death Mrs. White lived for a time not only in Billerica but in Burlington and Lexington. About 15 years ago she went to live in West Concord, N. H., where she had resided until the end came. She left no issue. For four score years she has maintained a constant love for the church. She never had failed to pray for it. Her entire life had been one of remarkable devotion to the cause of Christ. May the sweetness of her Christian life bear fruit long years after her departure.

Appropriate services were held in the church at Billerica, and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. C. Wright. The interment was at Fox Hill cemetery beside the remains of her husband. The funeral was largely attended, and the flowers bore evidence of the esteem in which she was held.

ROBERTS—Funeral services were held over the remains of Lindsey Sylvester Roberts, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the undertaking establishment of W. W. Colby. Many members of Lawrence lodge, No. 65, B. P. O. E., were present, as he was a popular member of that fraternity. The Rev. Mr. Wood officiated.

Tuesday morning the body was forwarded to New Hampton, N. H., where it will be interred in the family lot. A delegation will accompany the remains to their final resting place.—Lawrence Telegram.

CONSTANTINEAU—The funeral of Mrs. Cyrille Constantineau took place yesterday morning from the home of her son, Napoleon Constantineau, 25 Livingston street. Solemn funeral services were held at St. Joseph's church. Rev. Frs. Lamotte, Barrette and Ouellette, O. M. I., officiating. The hearers were C. H. Girard, Joseph Louf, R. J. Savoy and Joseph J. W. and Benjamin Twohey. The choir sang "For-reau's funeral mass. Frank Gourd-deau directed and Joseph A. Bernard played the organ. At the offertory, Mrs. Joseph A. Bernard sang "Pie Je-su" and at the communion Mr. Gourd-deau sang "Miserere." At the end of the services, the choir sang "Do Pro-fundis." The Third Ward was represented by Messrs. Dupont, Lambert, Brassard and Bourgeois and St. Anne's sodality by Messdames Chagnagne, Bernier, Durand and Savoy. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, and Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I., officiated at the grave. Undertaker Amodee Archambault had charge.

COCHRANE—The funeral of John Cochrane was held Tuesday afternoon at his late residence on Asaam street and was very largely attended by relatives and friends.

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, pastor of the Eliot Congregational church, of which deceased was a member, officiated and was assisted by Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Hopkins and Mrs. Penin sang "Saved by Grace." "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "The Christian's God-night," and there was a profusion of beautiful flowers as evidence of friendship and esteem.

There was a delegation from the Grand Union lodge, I. O. O. F., con-

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Lowell, Nov. 23, 1908.

Editor of Sun.

Some time when at leisure take a stroll up to the depot on Middlesex street at half past five or six o'clock and note the almost total darkness and the great confusion of teams and pedestrians. Why is this business section so poorly lighted? The only visible light is a dim glimmer from the depot and Richardson hotel office. The city furnishes none whatever.

It is very surprising that there are not more serious accidents during the rush between five and six o'clock.
